U.S. Commander Asks Rockingham To Get Them In Action Right Away

A SOUTH KOREAN PORT (Reuters) — The first troopship bringing the Canadian 25th Brigade to Korea arrived in this port tonight.

Brig. J. M. Rockingham, brigade commander, boarded the ship and announced his troops will go into action almost immediately.

Rockingham said Lt. Gen. James Van Fleet, Eighth Army commander, had asked that the Canadians be ready to go to the front as soon as possible.

"I promised General Van Fleet we would be ready," he added. "The way everyone has been working and with the co-operation we have been receiving from Eighth Army and American logistical officers, there is no doubt about it."

Tank-Infantry Patrols Strike Back At Reds

Enemy Regrouping; 'Not Through Yet'

TOKYO (CP) — Allied tank-infantry patrols, fanning northward out of Seoul, fought a series of sharp engagements today with Chinese Reds about 10 miles from the old Korean capital.

One patrol went into Uijongbu, 11 miles north of Seoul, against only minor Red resistance.

(Field dispatches implied that his patrol then pulled back southward.)

Another patrol southwest of Uijongbu brought back to United Nations lines two allied tanks that had been abandoned previously.

The day's most sizeable action was a two-hour fight east-northeast of Seoul. An allied armored force hit a Red Regiment, killed an estimated 200 men and brought back 21 prisoners after a brisk fight.

"We probably killed a lot more than 200, but we only reported what we actually knew," the patrol commander related.

Still another patrol northwest of Seoul ran into the vanguard of an estimated Red division.

In the air, two American F-80 Shooting Star jets were downed by Red gunfire.

Planes flew north to blast the Red build-up for a new assault along the western and central fronts.

Their night fighters came out for the first time Wednesday. Three Communist planes attacked a United States B-26 bomber.

The U.N. air show continued at near-record levels around the clock. More than 1,000 strikes were made Wednesday. Transport and supply dumps were prime targets. In three days nearly 1,000 railroad cars and almost 1,000 trucks have been bombed.

On request of the committee, W. C. Mainwaring, vice-president from Vancouver, and E. W. Arnott, vice-president in charge of Vancouver Island operations of the B.C. Electric Co., addressed the meeting giving a breakdown of figures covering South Vancouver Island operations of the company.

At its meeting Wednesday night Victoria Trades and Labor Council rescinded a motion opposing the application for higher power rates and calling for public ownership of the concern.

'IKE' ORDERS BIG BUILD-UP OF AIR POWER

PARIS (BUP)—Gen. Eisenhower announced today a gigantic expansion of the U.S. Air Force in Britain.

The 3rd Air Division, commanded by Maj. Gen. Leon W. Johnson, and based for two years in Britain, has been elevated to the "3rd Air Force," and the 7th Air Division will leave the U.S. for Britain, he said.

Co-ordinated with the strategic bombers now based in Tripoli and with others to be based in Morocco, expansion in Britain will give Eisenhower an air force with striking powers far exceeding his ground force and able to penetrate deep into Russia.

Living Costs Up 2.1 Points To New Record

Butter, Since Down, Largely To Blame

OTTAWA (CP) — The cost-of-living index advanced 2.1 points in March to a record 181.1 from 179.7, Trade Minister Howe announced in the Commons today.

Mr. Howe, making an announcement customarily issued by the Bureau of Statistics, said almost half the increase between March 1 and April 2 was accounted for by the price of butter, which has since dropped.

The announcement from the bureau, as read by the minister, said the remainder of the increase was largely due to other foods, clothing, home furnishings and miscellaneous items.

The March rise in the index, based on the 1935-39 price level, equalling 100, compares with a record climb of 4.5 points in February.

In taking the unusual step of making the announcement to the House, Mr. Howe noted that in a Commons speech April 9 he had said a preliminary survey for March indicated the index would hold about even or at most show an increase of not more than one-half of 1 per cent.

No Grounds To Oppose Raise

Finance committee today stated it would advise City Council it could see "no grounds on which to base opposition for a power rate increase application" to the Public Utilities Commission by the B.C. Electric Co.

On request of the committee, W. C. Mainwaring, vice-president from Vancouver, and E. W. Arnott, vice-president in charge of Vancouver Island operations of the B.C. Electric Co., addressed the meeting giving a breakdown of figures covering South Vancouver Island operations of the company.

Defence Department To Take Over Quarantine Station, Begg Building

Officials To Be Moved Into Local Quarters

William Head quarantine station is to be closed and its staff will take over the Immigration Building, 15 Ontario Street, the Victoria Daily Times learned today. Immigration inspectors will move to new quarters in the post office building.

It is reported that the large acreage at William Head will be taken over by the Department of National Defence.

With the disappearance of big passenger liners on the Pacific and improved methods in handling communicable diseases, the quarantine station at William Head has had its work curtailed. At one time when big ships coming from the Orient reported cases of smallpox, hundreds of Chinese steerage passengers would be taken ashore and quarantined at William Head for prescribed periods.

It is now possible for quarantine officials to conduct their work from offices in Victoria. The Immigration Building, which was also built in the flourishing days of Trans-Pacific steamship travel and, at times, housed many immigrants, will be large enough for their work.

Moving immigration office uptown will be helpful to the travelling public.

Since 1936 department of defence has been taking over large sections of land between the naval base at Esquimalt and Race Rocks. Major development was the ring of forts, housing 9.2 guns, on the Albert Head promontory.

U.N. Official Orders Israeli Battle Halted

TEL AVIV (CP) — The acting United Nations chief of staff, Col. Bennett de Ridder of Belgium, today ordered an immediate cease-fire in fighting between the Syrians and Israelis which broke out again today along the border northeast of Lake Galilee.

An artillery and mortar duel was going on today among the ancient ruins in the Kapernaum frontier area, it was officially announced here.

An Israeli military spokesman claimed today that Israeli troops killed more than 20 Syrians in driving them out of the disputed area Wednesday.

Israel's losses were put at four killed and six wounded.

Today's renewal of hostilities came after Jewish workers were fired on along the eastern shores of Lake Galilee between the villages of Ein Gedi and Nugeib, the spokesman said.

He said the bodies of the 20 Syrians were found "in our territory west of the demilitarized zone" from which they were expelled during the course of an Israeli counter-attack.

Israeli claims Syrian troops, aided by irregulars, seized a two-mile stretch of the demilitarized zone along the border, then drove into Israeli territory.

MacArthur Says Few More Troops In Korea Needed If Planes, Ships Used

Deposed Far East Commander Carries His Case To Senate Committee; Says Russia Not Ready

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur predicted today a few additional ground troops could wind up the fighting in Korea if backed by the "full capacity" air and naval effort he has urged.

The deposed Pacific commander carried to the Senate armed services and foreign relations committees his complaint against bans on bombing Chinese Communist installations in Manchuria.

This was one of the policy differences which led President Truman to dismiss MacArthur from his commands last month.

MacArthur testified behind closed doors to the senators but a stenographic report of his testimony—edited first by a military censor—was made public while he still was being questioned.

As he has before, the general protested that the United Nations forces are not permitted to carry out the "great strategic concept of stopping the supplies of troops, or preventing the buildup of enemy troops and the disorganization of supply lines."

Without full sea and air power, MacArthur said, "you would not be able to supply enough ground troops in Korea to be able to safely clear North Korea."

In that connection, Senator Hugh Butler (Rep., Neb.), on leaving the hearing earlier, had told reporters MacArthur also said he doesn't believe Russia could move troops eastward because the Trans-Siberian Railroad already is taxed to its limit.

The transcript recorded Russell as asking MacArthur about the hazard of having removed all U.S. garrison troops from Japan to Korea when the war broke out last June.

"If Russia had seen fit to have moved at that time, I assume they could have captured Japan, could they not?" Russell asked.

"I would doubt it very seriously, senator," MacArthur replied.

He added that he does not believe Japan could have been taken except by an amphibious effort. Then he said:

Lie, Younger Confer

LONDON (Reuters) — Trygve Lie, United Nations secretary-general, conferred with the British Minister of State, Kenneth Younger, at the Foreign Office today.

They are believed to have discussed Korea and the failure of the U.N. Good Offices Commission to negotiate with the Chinese Communist government.

New Point Ellice Bridge Project Shelved Until Ottawa Decision

Construction of the new bridge at Point Ellice has been shelved until Ottawa decides to pay its share of the bill, it was revealed today.

"Our plans are ready," said Alderman Frank Mulliner to members of the Civic Affairs Group of the Victoria Chamber of Commerce. But the city cannot go ahead if it has two-thirds of the bill to pay. We must wait until the federal government decides to pay its 33 1/3 per cent.

The bridge is to be built with funds provided one-third by the federal government, one-third by the provincial government and one-third by the city. The estimated cost has run from $300,000 to $750,000.

"We already have the architect's account for $16,000," continued Alderman Mulliner, who said he hoped that the Ottawa situation would soon be cleared.

TO ANNOUNCE NEW BRIGADE

OTTAWA (CP)—Cabinet is putting the final touches on announcement of a decision to form a new army brigade for Europe. The announcement is expected to be made within the next week.

A special appeal for recruits to join the European force is expected to be launched quickly. It will need more than 5,000 men.

It is expected to be separate entirely from the special force which now is earmarked for Korean service.

Mail Official Of U.S. Seeks Cache In B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP)—A United States Postal Department investigator is in British Columbia searching for $17,600 in postal notes believed secreted away by a gang of U.S. thieves.

Three American brothers, in jail at Seattle and Williams Lake, B.C., have been identified as robbers of two Utah post offices.

Alvin D'Arcy Booth, 34, and Ulysses Booth, 31, were captured Saturday near Williams Lake after two armed hold-ups in the Cariboo district.

Their brother, Kay, was arrested at Seattle and is being held there.

R.C.M.P. here said the trio cashed a number of stolen postal notes across the border.

The postal investigator went to Williams Lake in an attempt to learn where the remaining notes are hidden.

City Site To Be Centre Of R.C.A.F. Unit

The Begg Building at the corner of Yates and Quadra is to be the headquarters of the No. 2443 Victoria Aircraft Control and Warning Unit, commanded by Sqdn. Ldr. Philip Holmes, it was announced today in a dispatch from Ottawa.

Russell Ker, whose firm of Ker & Stephenson negotiated the sale, to the defence department, said the purchase price was $103,000, which, in addition to the building itself, included a vacant 35 by 120 lot on View Street.

Mr. Ker said the building belonged to F. R. Begg of Vancouver, and was at present used as storage space by various automobile dealers. "They have been ordered to vacate by the end of the month," said Mr. Ker.

"I have not yet had official notice," said Sqdn. Ldr. Holmes, "but I am delighted to hear the news."

He went on to say that he thought the Begg Building would be an excellent central site, although he expected it would need considerable conversion.

"It should provide us with adequate facilities, and I hope we will be joined there by other air force and aircraft organizations, so that we may develop rapidly," he said.

"We are one of the few A.C. and W. units in Canada," said Sqdn. Ldr. Holmes. "Up to now we have been badly handicapped by lack of accommodation. We have been working from one room in a building on Government Street, and it has not given us any chance to make progress."

At the moment the mobile equipment of the unit is at Gordon Head.

Chinese Reds' Aim To Crush U.S. Army

HONG KONG (AP)—The major speech at Peiping's May Day celebration contained no hint of any willingness by the Chinese Reds to seek settlement of the Korean war, belated details showed today.

The chief speaker at the celebration, reported to have been attended by Red leader Mao Tse-tung, was a pro-Moscow Red, Li Li-san, vice-chairman of the National Labor Union.

"We have only one aim," he said, "and that is to crush the American invasion army."

Island-Born R.A.F. Medical Head To Quit

LONDON (Reuters) — The Canadian-born director-general of the Royal Air Force Medical Services, Air Marshal Sir Philip Clement Livingston, will retire at the end of June, it was announced today. He will be succeeded by Air Vice-Marshal James MacConnell Kilpatrick, at present principal medical officer in the Middle East. Sir Philip was born on Vancouver Island 58 years ago.

We Didn't Know Scotland Afire

Then we would fail to sing again, and shake off our worries. We sang a line, to the tune of Johnny Cope, beginning: "Hey, Johnny Dean, are ye waken yet?"
"Or are ye sleeping, I would wit."
We never got further than that for it convulsed us with laughter. And then, to sober us up, we would sing "There'll Always Be An England" with a depth of irony that had jeering laughter rather than bitterness behind it.
Every five minutes I would think of Neil and announce in a histrionic voice: "And gentlemen in Scotland now abed, shall think themselves accused they were not here."
Occasionally we were serious, and considered the result of what we had done, but as yet we had seen no newspapers, and we did not know that we had set Scotland on fire.
We knew that its repercussions would be tremendous, but at that stage we were looking on it more in humility as a job accomplished.

We sang what hymns we knew, but only occasionally, for we were a little ashamed to show such feelings in front of each other, and occasionally, when the thought of success smashed through our skulls and we said that was in our minds, we would apologize to one another for being so emotional.
When we came to Stamford we stopped, and I went into the post office to phone Neil, while Alan hunted for somewhere to have breakfast.
In a short time he joined me with the grim news that everywhere was closed. It appeared that the locals were celebrating some festival called Boxing Day.
Neil gave me the good news that as yet there had been no arrests, so we knew that Kay was still safe. From the papers he had learned that the border was still closed, and he counseled us to go into hiding. But we knew better than he, and insisted on pushing on.
When he heard that we insisted on coming home, he struck a note of caution and told me to draw a map showing where the Stone was hidden and post it to him at his club.

'Have You Seen The Stone?'

I rang off and drew the following map and posted it to him in a registered envelope:
Stone hidden in copse on South side Rochester-London road. Four trees in from N. edge of copse. Two and one-half miles from Filling Station N. Outskirts of Rochester.
By the time we reached Grantham, we were both in need of food. Furthermore, the car was showing the first signs of the ill-use it had been put to.
There was three inches of play on the steering wheel, and we were not at all certain that the wheel would not at any moment come away in our hand.
We were losing power too, but I was certain that a minor adjustment would cure that.
I am fond of engines, and it is one of my particular vanities that an engine will run better when I am standing near it. Furthermore, before I left Glasgow I had bought an expensive wrench.

I had hoped to use it on an Abbey door, but the occasion had not arisen. It attacked the carburettor, and in a few minutes I had cured it.
The steering wheel, however, was quite beyond me, and while I poked and pried it was only to impress Alan that I knew what I was doing.
We drove off, Alan complaining wistfully that whereas before I put spanner to the car we could have got home in 12 hours now we would be lucky if we got home in 24.
We pushed steadily on; one sleeping dreamlessly, the other driving and shouting. We stopped for lunch, and then as we passed Doncaster we knew we were getting into enemy country, and could expect police patrols.
It was the middle of the afternoon before we were stopped. I was lying dozing in the back seat and Alan, who had been silent for some time, said quietly: "It's the police, Ian."

Map Is Mailed—Just In Case

I was awake immediately. We were following close on the heels of a police car which was traveling slower and slower.
"Where are we?" I asked Alan—not that it mattered. "Twenty miles north of Doncaster," he replied.
He pulled out to pass the police car and as we drew level the two constables scrutinized us closely. I gave them a cold incurious stare and then we were past them.
In a moment they had put on speed, and were traveling along side us signalling us to stop.
They pulled in front of us, and came round to Alan's window, their notebooks at the ready.
They asked for Alan's driving license, and they noted his name and address. "Where have you been?" they asked.
"London," replied Alan without a moment's hesitation.
"Where are you going?"
"Home," he said in one word.
"What's the trouble?" I asked, leaning forward from the back seat.
"It's this Coronation Stone," said one of the constables. "You haven't seen it, have you?"

I could have laughed at the folly of the question. "No," I cried, "but I've heard about it. It's a bloody good show. It should have been done years ago."
The constables looked at me sourly. "We live on the one island. Some people think we should all be one people," he said.
"Aye, maybe," I answered, "but the Scottish people don't think that. And they're the people who've got the edge on you today."
Without a word the constables handed Alan back his driving license and waved us on. We could not believe our luck. It was not the end after all.
For the first time we felt secure, for if the detective who had taken our number outside the hotel had really not handed in our particulars as suspects, we could bluff our way through all the road blocks south of the Tweed. We went on our way rejoicing at our good fortune.

Oak Bay Council Will Meet P.T.A. Executives

Oak Bay Council will meet May 21 with Oak Bay P.T.A. executives to discuss school administration and building costs, provincial government grants, school districts, and the "three R's." Reeve P. A. Gibbs announced at the meeting of the council Wednesday night.
The reeve said grants were not in line with the increased burden of municipalities, in that Oak Bay paid 16 per cent of the municipalities' share of school costs, and on a population basis should only pay 11 per cent.
Building permits were authorized for Farmer Construction Co. to build a $25,000 home at 2820 Beach Drive, to R. H. Smith for a $16,000 home at 3020 Beach Drive, and to E. J. Butler for a $15,000 home at 2920 Beach Drive.
Improvements to the 1,000 block, Transit Road, petitioned for by residents, will be carried out by local improvement.
Council approved a debenture loan by-law of $86,752 for construction of sidewalks, sewers and general maintenance.

Denver Buses Use Propane For Gas

DENVER, Col. (UP)—The Korean war and rising prices has caused the Denver-Boulder bus company to convert its vehicles from gasoline to propane burners.
The buses are the first in Colorado to use propane, a by-product of natural gas production.
The company's president, F. B. James, said use of propane "should cut our operating costs 14 cents a mile and save $150 a month."
The only outward sign of conversion on the buses are "snorkel" breathing pipes curving upward, like a second exhaust pipe. It costs $325 to convert a bus from gasoline to propane.
Rita, Aly Mismated
HOLLYWOOD (UP)—Rita Hayworth will never be happy until she divorces Aly Khan, a Hollywood astrologer decreed today because: "They've been mismated from the start."
According to David Sturges' charts, Rita—now westward bound from New York—should have married George Jessel and Aly would've done better if he'd grabbed Betty Grable before Harry James.
Mother Of 1951
NEW YORK (AP)—Mrs. Teresa Matsudaira, 49, Japanese-born mother of 13 children, was chosen Wednesday as the Roman Catholic mother of 1951. Mrs. Matsudaira's family was interned in Idaho during the Second World War. Despite this, three of her sons are war veterans. Mrs. Matsudaira was converted to the Roman Catholic faith in 1929.

Co-Insurance Accepted, Says Service Head

Co-insurance of the B.C. Hospital Insurance Service "appears to have been accepted" by the people of British Columbia, Lloyd Detwiler, commissioner of the B.C. H.I.S., told Rotary members today.
"A high proportion of payments is being made to hospitals in this regard," he said. "It appears this measure has had some effect on the bed shortage by easing the demand for beds, although it is too early to make any definite observations in this regard."
Vancouver's bed shortage, he said, is the result of not building any new hospital accommodation for many years. A backlog of care which accumulated in the past is now being taken care of, in addition to the city's present needs, he said.
Construction now in progress will help solve the problem, he said, adding that by 1952 Vancouver will probably have seven beds per thousand population. This ratio is well in excess of the standard sought by many leading U.S. cities, he said.
He pointed out, however, that each new bed costs from $3,500 to $4,000 per year to operate.
"We do not get something for nothing," Mr. Detwiler said. "In the final analysis we taxpayers must foot the bill for the high standard of hospital care we have demanded."

School Gets Funds By Student Work

HESTON, Kan. (UP)—At the junior college here, students and faculty have their own way of getting things done.
They don't go about the area asking for endowments or handouts. Instead they go out and work themselves.
Each April they take three days off from classes and scatter about the state to work at their trades and crafts. The proceeds go into the school building fund.
Last year the three days of work netted the building fund $6,000.

YEAR ADDED TO TERM FOR BREAKING OUT OF JAIL

Penitentiary terms of jail-breaker King Harold Callaghan, 25, was increased from two to three years when he was convicted in Alberni late Wednesday on a charge of unlawfully escaping custody.
Awaiting escort to the penitentiary, Callaghan broke out of the Alberni jail Sunday night but was recaptured early Wednesday in a cabin near Smith's Landing, Great Central Lake.
He also got a six-month term for stealing $16.50 in police funds to finance the flight. This sentence will run concurrent with the two-year term he got earlier for theft of a radio.
R.C.M.P. officers were away from the building on other duties when Callaghan picked the lock to get out of his cell. He picked up the money lying on a table and escaped through the bathroom window.

Canada's Weather Picture Today

SYNOPSIS: The weather picture over B.C. is much as it was 24 hours ago. The low off California still appears to be too far south to have very much effect on B.C. Only variable high cloud is to be expected over southern sections. The low over Alberta is moving slowly eastward and the cloud over the interior is continuing to decrease. Precipitation was confined to the Peace River district where rain mixed with snow fell through the night.

Another weak disturbance now entering western Gulf of Alaska is expected to move southward to the low off California and to cause only a little high cloud along the coast.

Temperatures are expected to show further rises in most areas tomorrow as the sunny skies persist.

REGIONAL FORECASTS VALID UNTIL MIDNIGHT FRIDAY

Victoria: Sunny this evening and Friday. A little warmer Friday. Winds light. Low tonight and high tomorrow at 42 and 68.
Vancouver, Georgia Strait: Sunny today and Friday. A little warmer Friday. Winds light except northwest 13 over and near Georgia Strait Friday afternoon. Low tonight and high tomorrow at Vancouver 42 and 68; Nanaimo 38 and 65.

Crewmen aboard the C.P.R.'s new B.C. Coast Service vessel Princess of Nanaimo are going to find things pleasant when the 6,787-ton ship sails through the Panama Canal's tropical weather en route to Victoria from Scotland.

All accommodation aboard for crew and passengers alike, plus the "car parks" on two decks, are mechanically ventilated with a supply of fresh-filtered air, hot or cold. Temperature is controlled thermostatically.

That's just one of the many up-to-date features on the Princess of Nanaimo. Good news for residents of harbor areas is that she is equipped with a gas cleaner fitted in the uptake of each of the four boilers, thus eliminating discharge of soot from the fat, single funnel.

For the 9,500-mile trip from the Clyde-side Fairfield Shipbuilding and Engineering Co. where she was built, the vessel has her spacious public rooms—observation room, lounge, restaurant and coffee bar, practically sealed.

Portholes and other openings which might take a beating in severe ocean weather are shut tight and, in places, steel plates are temporarily welded on.

When she goes into service on the 40-mile Nanaimo-Vancouver run about mid-June, the Princess of Nanaimo will carry up to 1,500 passengers and between 130 and 150 cars.

Britain's Festival Officially Opened

Symbol Of Nation's Courage And Vitality, Says King At St. Paul's

LONDON (Reuters)—The King spoke, the crowds cheered, the church bells rang—and the Festival of Britain officially began today.

The months of preparation came to a climax when the King and Queen rode through the streets of London to St. Paul's Cathedral in an open carriage, escorted by the glittering Household Cavalry. Throngs had waited all night for a glimpse of them.

"This is no time for despondency," said the King in a broadcast from the steps of St. Paul's, one of London's proudest monuments.

"I see this festival as a symbol of Britain's abiding courage and vitality."

From now until September the country will make merry with exhibitions, pageants, sports and fun fairs.

Planners of the Festival have had two motives: To celebrate the centenary of the Great Exhibition of 1851, and to show the world that Britain has faith in herself and the future.

Sunshine filtered through a grey London sky as trumpets blared at Buckingham Palace and the cavalry jingled out, plumes tossing and breastplates gleaming.

Behind came the Royal carriages—the King and Queen in one, Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh in another. This is the show that Londoners—and visitors—love.

All the pageantry and color of British tradition were on show at the Cathedral—yeomen in scarlet and gold, pikemen in silver armor, dignitaries in shining top hats and frock coats.

The King, slim and straight in his Admiral's uniform, mounted a dais outside the Cathedral.

He said the festival had been planned, like its predecessor in 1851, "as a visible sign of national achievement and confidence."

"Two world wars has brought us grievous loss of life and treasure," he said in slow, clear tones. "Though the nation has made a splendid effort toward recovery, new burdens have fallen upon it and dark clouds still overhang the whole world."

London got an early start on the fun. Crowds flocked to the sprawling exhibition site on the south bank of the Thames River Wednesday night for midnight revelry.

Seamen Refuse To Work With N.Z. 'Scabs'

WELLINGTON (Reuters)—British merchant seamen in this New Zealand port today refused to work with "scab" dockers who abandoned the waterfront strikers and formed a government-approved trade union.

The government withdrew recognition from the Dockers' Union because it backed the wage strike which has imperilled the country's industrial life for the last 10 weeks.

In Auckland, the other chief trouble spot, about 300 pro-government dockers went to work today escorted by the biggest force of police and servicemen ever seen there.

The men were taken to the docks in army trucks manned by armed soldiers, sailors and airmen. There was no trouble.

Wellington, Auckland, Christchurch and Dunedin—life-line ports of the island Dominion—were still half idle today. The dockers' work was done mainly by armed forces.

Oak Bay Conservatives Ask Lower Milk Prices

Oak Bay Conservatives will continue to hammer for lower milk prices.

Following passage of a resolution calling on the milk board to allow sale of milk at stores for 3 cents a quart cheaper than delivered milk and restricted deliveries, the Progressive Conservative Association of the Oak Bay riding formed a "follow up" committee.

The committee is headed by Frank H. Partridge and members are W. L. Makovski and A. de B. McPhillips.

Purpose of the committee is to study further the milk price and distribution question with view to making additional recommendations.

The Tory resolution passed at a meeting earlier in the week and forwarded to Premier Byron Johnson as well as the milk board, called for lower prices on milk at all stores and dairies during regular store hours, and cost of deliveries to homes be reduced through restriction of deliveries to Monday, Wednesday, Friday and Saturday.

Excluding Asiatic seamen, the British Mercantile Marine in 1950 had more than 141,000 officers and men.

Some Reports By MacArthur Were Changed

Says Washington Put In Political Slant

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. Douglas MacArthur said today some of the reports he made as United Nations commander were changed in Washington to insert a "political slant" favored by the State Department.

MacArthur told of this in response to questions from Senator Richard B. Russell (Dem.-Ga.) at the Senate inquiry into Far Eastern policies and MacArthur's dismissals from his commands.

The general said he was only "nominally" connected with the United Nations and made his reports to the U.S. Defence Department.

These reports were "subject to censorship by our state and defence departments," he said.

He said that sometimes changes were suggested to him and he accepted them, but added that there was at least one case where he refused to accept the changes.

He said these were "changes which seemed to me to place a political slant upon a military officer's report, which were not warrantable."

Marx Would Be Surprised

IF RUSSIA WERE A COMMUNIST state, modeled on the dream of Karl Marx, there would be no rich and no poor. Even though Marx, the grandfather of the Revolution, has long since been excommunicated by his high priests, still many people in the western world imagine that somehow Russian society must be more egalitarian than ours. If this were true the proof of it would be found in the national taxation system. A new study by the United Nations shows just the opposite.

The fairest system of financing any state is through a direct tax on income, which is based on ability to pay, which taxes the rich man more than the poor. The unfairness of the indirect tax, especially the sales tax, which extracts the same amount of money from rich and poor alike.

Under the new Canadian budget, though the sales tax is sharply increased, it will supply only 16 per cent of the Government's revenues and all indirect taxes will provide 43 per cent. Some 53 per cent will come from direct income taxes on individuals and corporations.

In Russia, the United Nations experts find, sales taxes furnish from 50 to 65 per cent of the Government's revenue. Well over half of those revenues are collected without regard to the individual's ability to pay and, of course, in direct denial of Marx's theories of equality. The consumer is further penalized by taxes hidden in the profits of the state factories. Including these profits, which the consumer pays, indirect taxes amount to about two-thirds of all state revenues.

Washington economists have recently translated these figures into practical terms. They conclude that if indirect taxes on the Russian scale were collected in the United States the price of a pound of veal would rise from 59 cents to $1.69; of beef from 95 cents to $3.07; of butter from 77 cents to $3.08; of sugar from 10 to 37 cents; of cotton cloth from 24 cents at wholesale to 53 cents.

After paying huge taxes, without regard to his individual income, the Russian does not escape income taxes. The average American worker with a wife and two children pays 2.1 per cent of his income to the state. In Russia he pays 6 per cent.

In the higher brackets, however, the Russian is favored since the state deliberately pampers the bureaucrats and managers—the new revolutionary aristocracy—on whom the regime rests. By the time a successful Communist is getting a salary of $12,000 a year his income taxes are lower than those of an American in the same bracket. And the larger bureaucrats are the most protected and privileged ruling class in the world.

Marx believed that Russia would be the last state to adopt Communism. Perhaps after all—in Marx's own terms—he was right.

A Lesson From Kefauver

PUBLICATION OF THE UNITED STATES Senate's crime investigation committee recommendations, including a charge against at least one public figure in high office, marks the close of another chapter in our neighbor's war against crime. That is not the end of the story. To accomplish its objective, the Kefauver committee and its supporters seek legislative action to eliminate certain loopholes through which criminals slip.

The findings of the committee relate specifically to the United States. There are ramifications reaching into other countries, notably Italy. The investigation, nevertheless, is a domestic affair.

What stimulates interest beyond the realm of the United States, however, is the means by which underworld characters are able to organize, establish syndicates, and through brutal power and political skulduggery prey upon a society deprived of the protection which it should properly be accorded. That pattern could be, and sometimes is, repeated in other nations.

What has emerged from the hearings and the writings of Senator Estes Kefauver should be a warning to everyone. Though racketeering has not achieved the same prominence in Canada as it has in the United States, it would be unrealistic to suggest that analogous conditions could not exist here. They could.

City Of Gardens Opens Its Gates

EACH YEAR AT THIS TIME VICTORians find pleasure in reading newspaper stories of the annual spring garden festival which attracts visitors from all parts of the continent. Sponsored by the Victoria Horticultural Society and supported by a number of private garden owners, the event is a highlight of the season for those who find enjoyment in flowers and shrubs.

Both for people who come from centres some distance away and for our own citizens who can take advantage of the garden tours, the festival is a source of satisfaction. They can wander through grounds lovely in the profusion of late spring growth and can mingle with experts in their discussions.

Few of our man-made attractions are as valuable as the event now in progress. Not only does it place on display an exceptionally attractive side of Victoria, it also emphasizes the hospitality of citizens who welcome visitors to their grounds. From a purely materialistic point of view, it is a first class way of advertising this community as a desirable place in which to settle.

With Victoria's thanks to those who assist in making the festival a success each year go the hopes that the graciousness of the hosts and hostesses will be rewarded by the increased enjoyment of pleasure shared with others.

Shoulder To Shoulder Again

APART FROM THE ADMINISTRATIVE and technical advantages of a Commonwealth command in the Korean theatre, the sentiment of the Canadians overseas seems to be much in favor of the new arrangement. The division of British, Canadian, Australian and New Zealand troops, with an Indian medical section, will operate under British Major Gen. A. J. H. Cassels. His top staff officer will be Lt. Col. E. D. Danby of New Westminster, and the military effort of the Commonwealth will thus be co-ordinated.

The record of these troops so far has excited the admiration of their allies in the field and at home. Fighting as separate brigades and battalions they have carried on the traditions they inherit from their predecessors in recent and far-distant wars. Now, in one organization, they may be expected to continue the good work under more favorable circumstances. Formation of the Commonwealth Division makes new history. We can be sure its record, yet to be written, will also achieve new heights in the tests to come.

Comes The Happy Ending

THE "HOLLYWOOD ENDING"—THE traditional fairy-tale climax in which the villain draws his just desserts and the hero and heroine live happily ever after—has been varied occasionally in the interests of realistic films. It is, nevertheless, standard practice and is calculated to send patrons home with light hearts.

If the technique is a little shallow and unrealistic, it apparently would not be improved by the policy now reportedly laid down for Russian productions. In the U.S.S.R. it seems so necessary to glorify the proletariat that the director of the state-owned Bolshoi Theatre has been dismissed because his production of Herman Zhukovsky's Stalin-prize winning opera "From All Our Hearts" failed to reflect "the richness and joyfulness" of life on a collective farm.

Isn't so long ago that the fellow travelers would have called such an attitude bourgeois. Is the people's republic turning to the capitalist west as a pattern, and departing from the traditionally dolorous Russian theme? Or has some high Russian official, on an earlier visit to the United States, seen "Oklahoma" and gone home to the discontent of something less rich and joyful than the Richards-Hammerstein II opus?

Chips Off The Old Brock

By DAVID BROCK

A FRIEND of mine had a guest last week who couldn't abide tripe or kidneys or liver or heart or brains or tongue or sweetbreads or any of THOSE THINGS. Consequently it was rather hard for my friend (who is a real cook) to feed his guest. This chef had to concentrate on the OUTSIDE of every animal for fear of offending his guest with any insides. He explained to the guest that insides are half the raw material of cookery.

But the guest refused to credit so absurd a claim. And refused to eat so outlandish a diet, too.

I feel sorry for such people. They are rejecting a worthwhile experience for childish reasons. And they are (I think) blaspheming cookery. If a man can go to hell (as Ruskin claimed) for wearing a tartan tie, he must go to some place worse than hell for putting sweetbreads off to one side of his plate.

A civilized man forms certain rules for himself, and picks up other rules from his mentors. He knows, by instinct or education, that it doesn't do to joke about Shakespeare or wine or gents' lounge suiting. He also knows that good food is nothing to sneeze at.

BUT if our guests would use by refusing sweetbreads and tripe and other heavenly rubbish, we have one revenge. We can disguise the stuff! We can make them eat it without knowing what in the world it is. If we leave the bits of tripe too big in a Philadelphia Pepper Pot soup, your finicky guests will diagnose the stuff and spit it out... spit it as far as possible, since they obviously lack manners as well as taste. But if you chop it small, they won't know it when they see it, and the flavor is the same as before.

I COULD tell you here, if you were interested, how to make a good pepper-pot soup. Essentially, it is a soup made of tripe, veal knuckle, onions and potato, wisely seasoned. Seasoned savamment, as the French say, which means learnedly or cleverly but more than that too. And I could tell you what the seasoning should be... including parsley-root, of all things, for all I know. But what do you care? You don't even like tripe to begin with, more shame to you. You, my dear but beastly reader, are a typical guest, deny it if you can. You are fussy, but for the wrong reasons, and in the wrong way.

ONE of the loveliest things about tripe is its talent for absorbing other flavors. It shares this knack with mushrooms, which have little taste of their own but pick up charm on the way, so to speak, provided you steer them the right way. Have you ever had tripe cooked in the mode of Caen? There isn't much left of that most beautiful little town... we and the Germans managed to shoot it to bits, and while that couldn't be helped, it was still a great pity, for Caen was one of the new survivors of the Middle Ages. It takes about a thousand years to build a town like that.

BUT if Caen is gone, its way of cooking tripe is still here, for those who are interested. I will not profane the recipe by printing it on this all-too-secular and practically-minded page. But permit me to inform you that the recipe is a little miracle of goodness... and I include virtue in that word goodness. Any man who hates tripe, properly served, is a barbarian. I was going to add "and may the Lord pity him," but on second thoughts, what's the use? It is a waste of space and ink.

I have been told, by doctors and dietitians and other misguided types, that you can avert cancer by eating the insides of horned cattle... their hearts and livers and kidneys and all. It seems these inner bits contain a certain chemical, which for all I know is called McGookus 3, or Gullion 46, or neo-tryptophelic-syntho-times-fifty-sub-dromedary-jube-jube.

WELL, that seems to me to be about the rottenest reason for eating a dish that was ever invented. I can eat it if it tastes all right. But if I have to eat it for my health, my appetite is shot to pieces.

On the lowest possible terms, which are medical ones (how you down dar, Doc?) the thing is ludicrous. No, let us eat tripe and sweetbreads and other odds and ends because we LIKE them, damn it, and not because they do us good. And if we like them, they WILL do us good. Bless their little hearts... Or bless their little pancreatic juices.

MERMAIDS AND ALL THAT

I SEE in The Countryman (that wonderful little quarterly) that the last authenticated mermaid was spotted about 1900. That's too bad. Heck, 1900 was half a century ago. If some of us had our eyes peeled, we could be shooting mermaids all day long, to relieve the meat shortage. Fried mermaid is a mighty tasty dish. Roast mermaid is good, too, with an oyster sauce. (Incidentally, dear food-eaters, do not attempt to consume oysters with ketchup on them, or any other nasty condiment, come next September with an R in it. Try them with a little lemon and a tiny trace of horseradish and you will see wonders.) It is a long time since I have sampled braised mermaid, but it sticks in my mind that this is a dish fit for a whale.

It (Communist propaganda) fills the world with envy and hate. Great clouds of envy and hate, like breath on a frosty day, emerge with every word these men speak.—Bertrand Russell.

As Our Readers See It

CIVIC ECONOMY

It was a well understood thing amongst many people of Victoria, that when the City Manager was appointed there would be no need for more than half the regular number of aldermen.

Now, the present council refuses to even consider a reduction of their numbers; yet, surely, there never was a greater need for economy than today, when we are perhaps on the verge of the greatest war in all world history.

Is there to be no consideration whatever for the unfortunate taxpayer? Incidentally, Mr. Freeman's public-spirited attempt to delay the sale of the Prince Robert House at such a ridiculously low figure as that quoted, is to be heartily commended. What we need badly in this city is a Citizen's League, or something of that nature, in order to keep an eye on what is going on in our midst.

PERFECT LAWS

Evidently Mr. Pepper has an entirely erroneous idea of God's laws. If he will read the 19th Psalm he may learn that God's commandments are perfect, His statutes right and His judgments true and righteous altogether. Obedience thereto guarantees success in every department of life, perfect social security, protection against war, no more than 10% taxes except in the higher brackets, and no hospital insurance premiums. Space forbids enumeration of all the benefits, but conditions would be just as satisfactory as they are distasteful in this present condition of fear and chaos.

SURVIVAL

"Democratic man may be on the eve of losing everything he has struggled to create through many centuries... the only question worth considering is mere survival."

The above excerpt from Bruce Hutchison's excellent article in the April 25 issue of the Times gives food for much thought to any reflecting mind.

What is a democrat? Can a man be a democrat and a Christian at one and the same time? Can a man be a believer in any organized religion and a democrat at the same time?

Religion as defined by the Encyclopedia Britannica appears to be the very antithesis of democracy or free will in human behavior. Any and all religions that I have studied seem to vision man as a supine slave to some superior

Supreme Being whom he must worship and appease. This relieves him of any real responsibility and leaves him free to think only of bread and circuses even in the worst of world tragedies.

Whether there is a God in Heaven or not no living man knows. Why not admit it? Then we might get on with the real job of learning to live on this glorious earth.

SEPARATE SCHOOLS

Your correspondent, Mr. John Holloway's contention that "separate schools exist for no other reason than that (Roman) Catholics believe in conscience that Christianity must be an integral part of education," could easily be refuted by anyone who does see the Roman Catholic hierarchy systematically at work at a well-laid plan for Government control; (oh, yes, to be sure, through votes). That is one other reason of which your correspondent seems to be ignorant! Ontario pays now about 95% of the Roman Catholic separate schools' expenses.

After all, what is Christianity really? Some one has said rightly: "Christianity is Christ." He is "the Word that became flesh." Both the Authorized version and the Douay version of the Bible clearly affirm that "in the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God."

The B.C. Government therefore have acted very wisely in allowing the Bible to be read in their public schools but without comment or private interpretation (this on account of much false teaching), the Bible being its own interpreter. The "separate" schools, of which your correspondent writes, have not the Bible in their classrooms!

RACE TRACK

A race-track-in-Victoria? Only one sensible answer—for the same reasons that the old tracks were closed.

I presume because racing usually brings the undesirables, hangers-on, drifters from place to place, pickpockets, thieves, gamblers, who fix races and games.

If race-betting is allowed here in B.C., then let us have hospital sweepstakes, winners to claim prizes at an outdoor picnic, a gala day for all interested. Either make gambling legal or illegal. Like boozers there will always be gamblers.

SERIOUS.

An Answer To Our Query

DR. THOMAS WOOD did not write the music to "Waltzing Matilda," he arranged it only as a song for voice and piano, also as a pianoforte solo.

I quote his own words: "... we mourned together that there were no folk-songs in Australia. The bullockies sang ribaldries to music half tunes; the shearers did not sing at all. In my own Essex and Suffolk I had filled a note-book. There was not enough here to fill one page... the only Australian song, I said, that had right sort of smack was 'Waltzing Matilda.' Did he know it? Did he not? It was written in this very town of Winton in Queensland; sung, for the first time, in this very room.

"Yes, 'Banjo' Paterson used to come and stay with old Robert McPherson, out at Dagworth Station, years ago. They were driving into Winton one day in the buggy, along with McPherson's sister and Jack Lawton, the drover. He told me the tale, many a time. On the way they passed a man carrying his swag. 'That's what we call 'Waltzing Matilda' in these parts,' said McPherson; and 'Banjo' Paterson was so struck with the phrase that he got a piece of paper and wrote the verses there and then. When they got to Winton, his sister, who was a bit of a musician, wrote the tune; and they all sang it that night."—From "Cobbers" by Thomas Wood.

Dr. Wood always acknowledged that the words and melody were reprinted by permission of Messrs. Allan & Co., Prop. Ltd., Melbourne.

Losing A Good Turkish Bargain

By JOSEPH ALSOP, from Ankara

THE SAME paralysis of American policy that has played such a large role in the Iranian tragedy also appears here in Turkey. And this is causing us to let drop, feebly and flaccidly, all the good Turkish effort.

This is because the problem of Turkey's relationship to the Atlantic pact has not been squarely faced in Washington. This shirking in Washington is understandable. It is partly caused by the State Department's fear of Congress and partly by the almost equal reluctance to thrash out great issues with our West European allies. Unfortunately the price of this shirking is likely to be the loss of one of the best strategic bargains any country has every been offered.

The bargain was first offered at the time of the formation of the Atlantic pact structure, when the Turkish government formally asked to be included. On many occasions thereafter, the offer was urgently renewed, until last fall when the Turks told they would have to wait a long time to join the club. In January, therefore, the Turkish government proposed three substitutes to Washington: either a Turkish-American alliance, of American adherence to the existing Anglo-Franco-Turkish alliance, or the formation of a Mediterranean pact on the Atlantic pattern, including the United States.

What the Turks really want, as any one will tell you from the man in the street to the burly Chief of Staff, Gen. Yamut, and the astute Prime Minister Menderis, is a clear American guaranty of help if they are attacked. The form does not matter to them.

MUTUAL ADVANTAGES

But the advantages of such an alliance are far from being all on the Turkish side. In the first place, the most important American strategic air bases are in the Eastern Mediterranean. An attack on Turkey would thus constitute an in direct attack on those bases.

In the second place, besides occupying a position that protects our most valuable air bases, Turkey is in the precise region, near Yugoslavia, where we may some day most need an ally.

In the third place, since they are far better armed than the Yugoslav forces the 25 Turkish divisions today constitute by far the strongest army on the European horizon this side of the iron curtain.

In these circumstances, you would have supposed that any policy makers in their senses would have jumped at the chance of an outright, unqualified alliance with Turkey.

At this very moment of writing, however, all these huge prizes are in serious danger of being lost to us. The Ambassadors' Conference, which has just been held here, signals one final Turkish effort to get an answer to the question of Turkish security. As to the Turkish reaction if the question continues to be answered negatively, one wise Turkish official has remarked, "The Turkish government is too experienced and hard headed to think about 'neutralism.' Yet the cool reception of the repeated Turkish offers has naturally left an unhappy impression in Ankara. If we continue to wobble and waffle and delay and defer, we can be sure of two things.

First, the alliance which is now freely offered will begin to carry a price tag. And second, if war comes before the alliance has been made, the Turks will be almost irresistibly tempted to pursue the policy of armed independence from both sides that they adopted last time. It is hard to imagine a greater folly than running these risks, as we are now doing.

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN A. TOBIN

"IT'S quite a while," said the Elevator Man, "since we heard about that fellow who wanted to get inside work so he took up dentistry. But it must be a great way to get to know people. A lot of people give away more of themselves just by holding their mouths open than by wagging their jaws."

The wagging jaw only tells you what the owner wants you to know. The open mouth can give out secrets even the patient isn't aware of. Of course it may take an expert to read the evidence, but it's all there, like looking through a knothole into your private life. That may make poor summer reading for dentists, but I guess it has its compensations. Especially if they do their business on a cash and carries basis. Going up!

"They say," said the Elevator Man, "that a lot of us dig our graves with our teeth. At that rate a good many of us are pretty fussy about our final resting place, the way we put money into our excavation equipment. We may not be silver-tongued, but we're certainly gold-toothed. It seems a lot to spend on grave-digging. But after all, it's going to be a permanent filling. Lower main!

"Even after death," said the Elevator Man, "our open mouths can betray us. There used to be a gruesome story about the body of a man that was brought to a morgue from an accident. He was taken to be a certain local rich man and preparations were made for an elegant funeral. But at the last minute a distant relative came in, viewed the body and said, 'That isn't Joe Blank. Joe had no gold teeth and this man has three.' Disgustedly the undertaker dumped him back on the slab and prepared him for Potter's Field. 'You fool,' he muttered, 'if you'd only kept your mouth shut you'd have had a first class send-off.'"

Mortgage Group Chief Says Rent Control Kept To Benefit Minority

MONTREAL (CP)—H. E. Langford, president of the Dominion Mortgage and Investments Association, said today that rent control "is being maintained for the benefit of a vocal minority."

Addressing the annual meeting of the association, he said the federal government is to be commended for its decision to abandon rent controls, but it is most regrettable that provincial governments are moving into this field with little thought of the outcome.

"Actual experience in France, Britain and Canada shows that in the long run the effect of controls is to decrease the amount and quality of housing," Mr. Langford said.

There seemed to be an impression that rents were exorbitant. No doubt some owners whose properties were free of control had taken advantage of the situation, but the majority had not. The rise in rents had not been nearly as great as the increase in the price level. The cost-of-living index now stood at 179.7, while the rent index was 137.6.

Mr. Langford said the inequities and injustices arising out of rent control are almost too numerous to mention. Landlords had been forced to subsidize tenants.

HOME GARDEN

by Jack P...

Colman, the mustard king, said he made his money, not from the amount of mustard people used, but from the quantities left on their plates.

Much the same could be said about fertilizer in the home garden; considerably more is wasted than is put to good use.

Our plants have two types of roots; one set hold the plants firmly in the ground, and the other supplies the food.

Unlike humans, feeding roots have no teeth with which to chew solid matter, nor are they equipped with arms to reach out and secure food.

To be effective, our artificial plant foods must be placed where the roots can reach them. In the case of large trees, this is approximately the same distance from the trunk as the branches spread; for smaller plants it may be from two inches to two feet from the stem.

Our fertilizers are supplied in solid form, and are useless to a plant until converted into a liquid. During wet weather soil moisture will take care of this, but when the soil is dry the moisture must be supplied by the gardener.

Plant roots are not hollow like drinking straws. Actually, the ends are capped with a protective covering, and it is the cells in the fine root hairs which absorb the moisture (and food) by the process of osmosis. Much fertilizer and little water means waste; a little fertilizer and lots of water brings results.

For quick response it is best to apply any fertilizer in liquid form, and place it where the feeding roots are located. Applied in powder form, it becomes available more slowly, and the rate will depend on the amount of moisture supplied.

Fertilizer, still visible in the soil at the end of the season, is wasted because winter rains will make it available when no plants are there to use it.

SOUTH KOREANS HOLD LINE

Play Major Part In Beating Reds

SOMEWHERE IN KOREA (AP)—The Republic of Korea's First Division played a major role in the successful Allied defense against the Communist offensive that struck in full force the night of April 22.

For days there had been indications of a Communist build-up. The division, commanded by Brig-Gen. Kang Song-bong, sent out long-range patrols.

"They kept in close contact with friendly guerrilla groups.

The Communists thought they were our main line of resistance and when they came in force we were waiting for them," Gen. Kang said in an interview Wednesday.

The Communists hit the 1st R.O.K. Division outpost line at 10.30 p.m. April 22. In a few spots small groups of North Koreans and Chinese infiltrated the defence line.

When the Communist offensive started the 1st was holding a 15-mile front.

Kang estimated 75,000 North Korean and Chinese Communist troops, representing nine divisions, faced his men. The Communists struck Kang's front with three assault divisions. When these had been badly battered they were replaced in the line by three fresh divisions.

Kang said that during the first three days of fighting his men rendered those nine Communist divisions completely ineffective.

Scurrah's Bid To Cut Levy Failure

City Council Establishes Mill Rate For Year At 55

Ald Percy Scurrah's bid to cut the city's 55-mill tax levy by half a mill went down in a special council meeting Tuesday by a vote of eight to two.

Aldermen Still Anxious Work Be Carried Out

Traffic signals and roads, washed out during estimate debates to trim the civic budget, concerned both Ald. J. D. Hunter, chairman of public works, and Ald. Waldo Skilling, chairman of transportation and public safety, at a special council meeting Tuesday.

It was indicated requests for allotments from the contingency fund might be made.

"Sixty per cent of the signals we asked for will not be forthcoming in 1952," said Ald. Skilling. "The only way to look after public safety is to have these signals."

In view of the slow delivery on electrical equipment, he termed cutting the item to save $5,000, "foolish."

"Things were cut out of public works which were to my mind absolutely necessary," Dr. Hunter told the meeting.

When it was suggested that a letter from City Engineer Cyril Jones outlining the work that could not be undertaken this year owing to the cut in estimates, be referred to public works, Dr. Hunter protested. He was outvoted.

Here is the work Mr. Jones said would have to be by-passed: Hillside, Richardson from Moss to Lotbiniere; Pembroke from Government to Store; Blanshard from Collinson to Burdett; Adanac, McCaskill, and St. Charles from Despard to Fairfield.

Mayor Percy George urged that something be done with the Blanshard Street item as it was the approach to the new B.C. Power Commission Building. He termed it a "dustbowl." Dr. Hunter said the engineer had already made a study and selected the most necessary work. He could see no point to sending the report back for revision.

Ireland Gets Record Budget; Faces General Election As House Rises

DUBLIN (Reuters)—The Republic of Ireland today faced a record budget, the ending of Marshall Plan aid, and a possible general election as the sands seemed running out for Premier John A. Costello's three-year-old Coalition Government.

Costello is expected to visit President Sean T. O'Kelly Monday to request dissolution of the present Dail (parliament).

If he stumps the country now he can say the Republic of Ireland is the second European country to progress enough to be able to give up Marshall dollars.

Finance Minister Patrick McGilligan Wednesday night told the Dail that by mutual agreement with the United States the Marshall program will stop after Ireland had received a total of $146,200,000 aid, $18,000,000 in outright grants.

Rev. Lambert Speaker

Guest speaker at the War Amputations of Canada, Victoria Branch, dinner at the Crystal Garden Friday at 7 will be Lt. Col. Rev. Sidney E. Lambert, O.B.E., Toronto, Dominion president of the association.

Lt. Col. Lambert was to arrive here today on a tour of branches across Canada. Friday afternoon he will lay a wreath at the Cenotaph, on Saturday will visit the Veterans' Hospital, and Sunday morning will deliver the sermon at Fairfield United Church.

McGilligan brought down a record $81,732,000 ($228,989,600) budget, with only motorists feeling much hardship.

He boosted gasoline prices by twopence (4 cents) to one shilling and fourpence (18 2/3 cents) a gallon. Estate and stamp duties also rose slightly. Income-tax allowances for children were increased.

Dissolution became probable when the government deputies resorted to a filibuster to talk out the session without a vote on agricultural estimates. When the House rose it was generally believed it would not meet again until after an election.

Chief threat to Costello's regaining power will be lank-haired Brooklyn-born Eamon de Valera, Premier for 16 years until ousted in 1948. De Valera's Fianna Fail Party is the biggest in the present Dail but by skillful nursing of minority parties Costello's coalition has survived.

VICTORIAN SPRING

by Cecil Maiden

LXXXV

Amy—with a prod in the ribs from Jake—said "He's right! Finkel's got to pay us if we perform!"

"And is this our opening night—or isn't it?" yelled Sadie.

Finkel jumped to his feet and tried to stand. He found that he could no longer do so, and slithered down onto a hassock. He managed to shout, all the same, "You can't! You know as well as I do there's a dance act going on down there!"

"So we'll damn well go and join it!" screamed Sadie.

To the rolling, drunken crowd of men and women, it seemed suddenly as if a solution had been found. The last two words were taken up... repeated... shouted. "Join it! Join it!" And Sadie's voice rose above them again—"If those two pious young ladies with their dancing infants don't want us—well, send 'em packing!"

"Who's for the theatre?" shouted Jake Larrett.

"While the going's good!" yelled another.

The men who had come in from the streets scented excitement. They joined in the general movement, lifting the women to their feet, steadying them with hot arms around the waist.

Finkel shouted a last protest. "You'll lose a lot more than a night's pay! You'll ruin the act!"

Sadie grabbed him by the waistcoat and dragged him up to his feet. "It's more'n the act we're going to ruin, Mister, if we don't get our pay this time!"

They all started to move towards the door. The 17 had grown to 24. Sticks were grasped, empty beer bottles, candles...

And Finkel, who could not stand, lay there and began to vomit on the carpet.

The women of the company pulled their skirts wide as they passed him. Soon they were all out in the street, and surging, swaying, were off towards the theatre, laughing at nothing, singing snatches of the songs from the show, led by the woman in brown curls, her gypsy earrings swinging over her flabby blue-pink cheeks as she strode along.

"The audience has been very quiet out there; quiet enough to hear a pin drop!"—Lettie, busy straightening small white sashes in the brief first interval, hardly looked up from the row of little girls in front of her in the crowded dressing room. Amelia was busy combing hair. She was none too gentle, either, and to many a squealed protest she merely muttered a brusque "Quiet, child!"

Lettie heard these repeated words and smiled to herself. Thank goodness they had made it clear that parents were not to come on stage until the evening was over!

Everything was going according to plan. Not more than two children had made any mistakes in the steps, and even they were slight ones. Martha Douglas, the Governor's child (whose father had been prevented from coming by a dispute with the Indians, and was away up the island) had behaved in a most exemplary manner. So had Meg and Dugald Murray. And even little Becky Langley, about whom Lettie had had more misgivings than any of the others, had danced in good time, and well within the rules.

Unable to restrain her own curiosity, Lettie had peeped through the side curtain (just after telling the children not to do so) and had satisfied herself that Jervis was there. She had known where he was to sit, and he was in the expected place. The knowledge of his presence gave her confidence.

She felt that all was well, now, and she could relax a little. She remembered, almost as clearly as if he had spoken to her across the footlights, what he had written in his letter... and having abducted you from your enraptured audience we shall drive away from them all. We shall drive right down to the edge of the sea, and make sure of being alone for a little time. And there will be so many things to make plans about...

"Stop dreaming about him!" Lettie shook herself. "Yes, yes!" said Amelia with a laugh. "Maisy Lennox has a safety pin sticking out of her seat—a nice how-d'you-do if she sits down in the next item!"

Lettie rushed to adjust the offending pin, and had no sooner done so than the orchestra began again, and Amelia marched past onto the stage with the children in her wake, like a string of playful kittens after a charger.

DON'T MAKE A CIRCUS OF OUR GOVERNMENT, PEARSON PLEADS

RENFREW, Ont. (CP)—External Affairs Minister Pearson admits "possibly we are making open diplomacy a little too open," but he doesn't want to return to old methods by which the destiny of millions was determined by secret moves. Speaking here Wednesday night he said it was difficult to work out just and reasonable solutions "in the exciting light of the television camera or under the often-prejudiced spur of the latest headline."

"I hope that in this country we will resolutely refuse to countenance the method or the atmosphere of the circus in our conduct of government."

DICK BARRETT ELECTED TO P.C.L. HALL OF FAME

The next time he appears in Seattle, Dick Barrett, manager of the Victoria Athletics, will be called upon to receive the accolade of knighthood in the Pacific Coast Baseball League. The genial Kewpie has been elected to the P.C.L. Hall of Fame.

The Helms Hall Board, directors of the Hall of Fame, announced yesterday that Barrett had been elected, and that the presentation would be made on his next visit to Seattle.

The award went to Barrett for 13 seasons as a leading hurler in the league, and his career pitching percentage of .582. His best year was 1942, when he won 27 and lost 13 for Seattle. His over-all total in the league was 234 victories and 168 defeats.

Also elected to the Hall of Fame was Bill Rainmond, veteran catcher with Oakland and Sacramento.

Coleman's Column

By JIM COLEMAN

Miss Ingrid Prettigams has just checked into Hotel Kentucky at Louisville. Miss Prettigams is one of those bosomy creatures known as a "movie starlet." Miss Prettigams is in Louisville because the 77th renewal of "The Dubby" will be contested on the outskirts of that city on Saturday afternoon. Miss Prettigams' press agents have briefed her carefully on the fact that "The Dubby" is a horse race. It matters not that Miss Prettigams doesn't know the correct end of the horse to which one offers an apple.

Louisville is "The Place To Be On Saturday" after-noon and Ingrid will be there to be photographed by the press boys who always operate on the reasonable theory that one well-turned human ankle is more photogenic than one dozen horses. The Dubby is, probably, the most over-rated horse-race in the world. In reality, it's a carnival—a big, three-ring circus, complete with side-shows.

One trip to The Dubby usually is enough for the average sucker. The sucker can't obtain decent hotel accommodation—the best rooms have been assigned to movie stars, stuffed shirts, newspaper scribes and political hangers-on at least three months in advance.

Cheaper And Easier On TV

The sucker is jostled by 100,000 other kooks; he is fed indifferent food at outrageous prices and he cools his fevered tonsils with cheap bourbon at one buck per shot. Unless he is perched on someone's shoulders he has only a fifty-fifty chance of seeing any portion of the race. Next year, he'll be smart enough to stay home and watch the race on television.

It's time that Canadians, generally, realize that we have an older and better horse race right here in our own country. The 92nd consecutive running of The King's Plate will be contested at Woodbine Park, in Toronto, three weeks from Saturday. The calibre of horses won't be as good as those competing in The Dubby, but The Plate won't be simply a carnival for the suckers—The Plate will be a sporting event with the emphasis placed on horse-racing.

It's time, too, that Canadians, generally, realize that we have developed a horse that, some day, may be ranked with the great sires of North America. His name is Bunty Lawless.

Progeny Are Prodigies

Bunty—a chunky little bundle of fierce energy—was one of the gladiator-horses of the Canadian racing world. He was the popular favorite when he won The King's Plate in 1938 and he went on to campaign successfully against top horses at Saratoga.

It is as a sire, though, that he will leave his real mark on Canadian racing. He has had only seven crops of foals come to the races, but already he has sired the winners of $528,000. It appears certain that he will be the first Canadian-bred horse to sire the winners of $1,000,000.

One of the chief questions to be answered on Saturday, May 26, is whether Bunty's sons and daughters will continue to dominate the list of King's Plate winners.

His progeny have won the race two years in a row. In 1949, the winner was Epic, a colt bred and owned by E. P. Taylor. In 1950, the winner was McGill, a colt which also had been bred by Mr. Taylor.

One In Nine Should Make It

Taylor has seven candidates for this year's Plate. The best of them is a filly named Britannia and, as you might expect, her sire is Bunty Lawless. She won four of her seven starts and $18,000 in purses last season.

Her trainer, Pete McCann, says that she can run all day. McCann is one trainer whose horses can't lie to him—a former jock, he gallops his own horses.

Last Sunday, he gave her a speed trial through the heavy mud and she pulled his arms out of their sockets. "She'll do," he said as he combed the mud out of her hair.

However, just in case Britannia fails, Bunty Lawless has eight other sons and daughters in the race. At this juncture, the best of them appear to be a filly named Sis Bunty and a colt named Donstan.

America's largest racing crowd will pack Churchill Downs on Saturday but the 40,000 or so who go to Woodbine on May 26 will see more sport.

Irish Square Hockey Finals

TORONTO (CP)—In the words of a never-say-die hockey star who made himself a reputation beating goaltenders: "Get Phil Hughes number and you get St. Michael's." Hector (Toe) Blake wasn't fooling.

His Valleyfield Braves were handed a 4 to 1 licking by Toronto St. Michael's Monarchs last night which tied up their best-of-seven series for the Alexander Cup at one game apiece. Valleyfield won the first game 4 to 1. It was Hughes, a 195-pounder from Fort Arthur, who once again put the damper on the Braves.

Indians' Glen Johnson fires one at short range but Shamrock goalie Bill Andrews blocks the shot and lets the ball bounce off his pads as Rocks downed North Shore, 15 to

7, in the opener of the Intercity Lacrosse League at the Memorial Arena last night. Johnson got three of the Vancouver markers. (See picture, Page 9.)

FLYERS LEAD IN CUP FINAL

WINNIPEG (CP)—Barrie Flyers are one step closer to giving the central Ontario town its first Dominion junior hockey championship. Happy Emma's hustling club last night walloped Winnipeg Monarchs 5 to 1 in the opening game of their best-of-seven Memorial Cup final. "Three more to go," was the Flyers' chant as they trooped to their dressing room after the one-sided contest. The next game is here Friday night and the third at Brandon Saturday.

Minor Hockey Top Award To Courtinall

Archie Courtinall, hard-working winger who put in a full season with the Commercial Hockey League in addition to his regular stint on the junior Victoria Vics top-scoring line, was recipient recently of the Hudson's Bay trophy for the outstanding player award of the Victoria Minor Hockey Association.

Occasion of the presentation was the wind-up banquet of the association, when 175 players, fathers and executives saw cups and crests handed out to the winning teams in each division. In all, 16 team trophies were awarded, and divisional prizes for the most valuable or most improved players went to Steve Foster, Ron Youell, Brian Hodges, Bob Fowler, Jim Parkhurst and Ed Sapella.

Daryl Jenkins Stops Clubmen

A four-run blitz in the third inning, and tight hurling by Daryl Jenkins gave Civil Service a 6 to 2 verdict over Tillikum in a senior B softball contest at Vic West Park last night.

In a second tilt, staged at Central Park, West Hated and B.C. Forest Products were tied 7 to 7 at the end of the regulation nine innings. The game will be re-played later in the season if point standings require it.

A's Find Answer In Jim Hedgecock

There's nothing wrong with the Athletics that a good lefthander can't cure. And banking on that strategy, manager Dick Barrett will shoot potterside Bill Paine against the Salem Senators at Athletic Park tonight.

Jim Hedgecock set the pattern for the wrongsiders last night as he snapped the A's out of a three-game losing streak with a 4 to 1 victory over Spokane Indians.

It was not only the A's first victory at home this season but also the first for Hedgecock, victim of a heart-breaking 4 to 3 11-inning loss to the Indians at Spokane and starting pitcher in the club's 3 to 3 tie with Tri-City.

Hedgecock was at his best as he shut the door on the Indians until the eighth inning when they bunched three singles for their only run. He was never in serious trouble outside of that one frame and though nicked for eight hits, kept them well scattered.

WHITE COMES THROUGH Effectively bunting their blows as Barrett waged a forcing game, the A's went ahead in the second on walks to Bill White and Hal Jackson, with Gene Gaviglio punching home White with the tally. White then drove home Tom O'Laughlin who had walked, with the A's second run in the third with a double to left.

From this point until the seventh the game developed into a pitcher's battle between Hedgecock and Ward Rockey, and it was Rockey who weakened first.

Billy Dunn led off the "home" frame with a single, moved up on a sacrifice by O'Laughlin and scored on Gene Thompson's second single of the night.

Lillo Marucci, whom Barrett moved up to the clean-up slot as he juggled his batting order, advanced Thompson to third on a pop-fly single to right and Thompson scampered home with the fourth run on White's infield out.

A practice of the Tillikum Senior "B" lacrosse team has been called for 8:30 this evening at the Arena.

SOCCER AT 6

The first of several postponed Victoria and District Football League games is scheduled for Macdonald Park tonight at 6, when Britannia Legion will meet Alcos.

Louis Gets By Agramonte; To Meet Savold

DETROIT (AP)—If ole Joe Louis can't kayo the lesser lights with his best punches, what'll happen when he tackles someone like Lee Savold?

Louis said last night he was satisfied with his right-hand punch. Maybe he is, but many of the 7,004 fans at Olympia Stadium weren't.

They thought the former heavyweight champion might knock out Omello Agramonte of Cuba in the way that made Joe a great-heavyweight champion for 12 years.

But Joe couldn't finish off the lanky Cuban in the 10-round fight although he floored him once. Joe won a unanimous decision.

And now it's on to Lee Savold, British and European heavyweight champion, although International Boxing Club promoters haven't settled on the June date or place for the fight.

If Joe can beat Savold, who figures to be tougher than Agramonte, the Brown Bomber hopes to tangle with world-heavyweight champion Ezzard Charles again.

Rocks Rip Past Tribe

Peroxide Pals Run Riot In Gutted-Stick Opener

By LANCE WHITTAKER
Pre-season conditioning, plenty of depth, and a 16-point effort by a blonde giant and two blonde midgets added up to a convincing 15 to 7 triumph for the Victoria Shamrocks in their Intercity Lacrosse League opener with the North Shore Indians at the Memorial Arena last night.

Seven of the Irish actually dented the hem, while the Red-skin scoring was left entirely to Roy Burton and Glen Johnson as the two teams turned in a relatively clean, straightforward performance before an enthusiastic crowd of 3,500 fans.

START SLOWLY

It took a while to find the range, but when their sights were set the Victorians poured rubber past Indians' Vic Grover in a stream that had the Red-skin netminder pawing the air wildly.

A trifle over-anxious in a first period that saw both teams feeling their way, Rocks moved up in the second period, got warm in the third and went blazing through the last canto with a flurry of six unanswered goals.

It was the predicted play of peerless Roy Burton which held Indians even in the first quarter. The big forward scored three of his team's four first-period goals and was the most dangerous man on the floor until Rocks got him covered near the half-way point.

POPULAR INDIAN

Burton drove in the first marker with only a minute and 16 seconds gone in the game and countered almost goal for goal with the Irish attacking lines, netting three, one a wicked back-hand drive, while Severson, Ed Popham, Art Green and Archie Browning were scoring for Victoria.

Contrary to pre-game supposition, and to the credit of capital city fandom, Burton didn't become a "hate" on his night's performance. The hard-working, skilful Indian got a rousing hand for his fight and sportsmanship.

SINGLE-GOAL EDGE

It was nip-and-tuck through the second as the North Shore defence tightened and Shamrocks increased the pressure. Norm Baker notched his second goal of the night on a pass from Arnold Ferguson, only to have Glen Johnson tie it up with a screaming screened shot that gave Andrews no chance.

Archie Browning moved the Rocks up two goals on a fast break, but Burton pulled the margin down again when he netted a sleeper on a floor-length pass from Bill Harris.

IT'S MY VIEW

By BILL WALKER, Sports Editor.

It must be extremely embarrassing to be proprietors of a business which caters to the public's goodwill and confidence and then have that confidence reach an ebb which threatens to leave everything high and dry in its wake.

And it also must be excruciatingly painful to see those, which you as lessees of a public trust have deemed as unsuitable to work in your employ, return to practically take business from right off your doorstep.

Baseball owners and managers fall in this category and of special note at the moment are two men—Johnny Johnson and Reg Patterson—who have as their honored trust the future of the Victoria Athletics in their hands.

This was to be the big year for the A's, not only financially as Patterson had engineered a contract with the Western International League which would allow the A's to make money for the first occasion in three seasons, but also gloriously as this was to be the pennant year.

The A's can keep their home receipts this season, something that was denied them in the past and which led to incredible situation of the club to all intent subsidizing other teams in the circuit. However, this new plan isn't working out too well. Three nights have passed, three nights that could have made Johnson and Patterson smile again as they were less than a month ago.

But Johnson and Patterson aren't smiling. They're worried, not over the dwindling attendance because the turnout hasn't been large enough as yet to show any appreciable decline.

But they're concerned over the future. You can read it in their faces; you can see it in their actions; you can surmise it the minute you enter their presence. And for a good reason, too.

It is the object of the Athletics to not only provide the city with a clean wholesome brand of entertainment but also to wipe out the red ink that is still showing on the books from two previous seasons. The obvious way to do this is to provide the city with a contender in the W.I.L., a position which the A's have tried hard to attain for five years now.

Spectres At Work Against The A's

Down in California where the sun really shines, both these honored gentlemen thought they had such a club. Now they're not so sure. And the reason they're not certain of their own eyes is because misty objects keep popping up in front of their optics in the persons of former A's, in whom they had passed a no-confidence vote.

Take for example Jim Wert who now plays first base for the Spokane Indians. Wert didn't do much in his first appearance here this year but in his second out, he picked up two hits and drove in two very important runs. Not that he's any better than our Hal Jackson; we'll take Jackson today, tomorrow and next week over Wert, but nevertheless, Patterson feels such body blows deeply.

Then there's Steve Mesner. Actually never the property of the A's, Mesner nevertheless was one player whom the A's could have had for the asking this spring. When the A's dropped their option, the Indians picked it up. And what did Mesner do in gratitude but to personally break up Tuesday night's game, with two doubles and five runs batted in.

Then there's Edo Vanni and Eddie Murphy, a couple of fly-chasers who once roamed pastures near Pembroke Street. In three games they've made life miserable for Patterson with a total of 11 hits between them.

Art Really Proved His Worth

But for the crowning point—and this came Tuesday night—there's the story of Art Worth.

Art is a Victoria boy, who was weaned on city playing fields. Actually Art preferred to earn his spurs somewhere else than home and picked Spokane.

Last year he was a first baseman. He played in the opening game against the A's and if memory serves correctly was instrumental in turning Johnson's white-thatched locks even lighter.

This year Art returned to Spokane as an outfielder. He again played on opening day but this time was more hospitable to the town of his heritage. He failed to hit.

Art stuck around from that time until Tuesday night when he bobbed up again, this time as a pitcher. Manager Alan Strange of the Indians, who says he is going to try and make a hurler out of Art, gave the southpaw his chance in a tough spot and Art, though not around at the finish, came through like a true rebel and received credit for his first professional mound triumph.

No wonder then that Patterson and Johnson are counting sheep—black ones—in their sleep these nights. But truthfully if you got those two sages of the diamond off in the corner, they wouldn't dare admit that they might have made a mistake in judgment. And quite frankly, too, the replacements for these spectres who have returned to haunt the A's are quite adequate, if not superior to their predecessors. It only remains for them to prove it, both to Patterson and Johnson and a pessimistic and disillusioned public.

Browning Burns Another One In

Archie Browning beat Indians' goalie Vic Grover no less than five times last night as he made a memorable debut in a Shamrock uniform. The classy forward, looking like a midget among giants, packed tremendous power into his shooting and was the only marksman to bring Grover down. He dropped the Redskin netminder in the third period with a blazing drive that kicked the goalie's feet from under him.

CITY HEARS SOFTBALLERS' SEATING PLAN

Price Boost Hit By Ald. Christie

Ald. Margaret Christie Wednesday held out for a 10-cent fee at Central Park if the city approved plans of the Greater Victoria Softball Association for a new bleachers to seat from 980 to 1,020.

Bud Hocking outlined plans to the parks committee and requested all possible speed. The league executive, he said, suggested a 25-cent fee.

He agreed with Ald. William Pinfold, chairman, however, that 15 cents would be a nominal charge, which is all the city is permitted to levy in a public park.

"If you charge any more than 10 cents you'll lose your people," said Ald. Christie.

Mr. Hocking said the association could obtain $3,000 worth of lumber for $2,000. It had been advised that labor costs for erection were estimated at $1,000 and cement work at $100.

"We can do the job for $3,700," he said, asking the city to make a loan of the $1,700, not in actual cash but in labor done by the public works.

The loan would be repaid in two years, he said.

"I don't see how we can lose," commented Ald. Pinfold. "The city will get a $6,000 asset which costs them nothing."

Ald. Pinfold said the request would have to go to the finance committee and then to council.

MONOPOLY HATCHET MEN EYE ORGANIZED BASEBALL

WASHINGTON (AP)—Organized baseball soon may come under the eye of monopoly investigators in the U.S. House of Representatives.

This became known today in advance of a scheduled meeting of the house judiciary sub-committee on monopoly power. The session was called to map new avenues for the committee's two-year-old inquiry into monopolistic tendencies.

Chairman Emanuel Celler (Dem.-N.Y.) was reported to favor a proposal to give baseball a quick once-over on its compliance with the federal anti-trust laws.

The baseball investigation, in the event it is voted, is expected to centre on organized baseball's long-discussed "reserve" clause. This is a contract provision giving club owners virtually absolute rights over the services of their players.

It has been criticized as a denial of the right of free bargaining in the commonly-accepted sense.

Tenpin Tourney Entries Accepted

Manager Harry Stuart of Gibson's Bowladrome announced today there are still several openings in the Times-Merchants handicap tenpin bowling sweepstakes scheduled for Friday night at 7.

Tourney will be concluded at Gibson's Tuesday night at 9. Tuesday's entry list is almost complete.

Boston's Big Four Stingy With Runs

The first-place Boston Braves are burning up the National League with the kind of pitching that managers dream about. The big four of the Braves' mound staff—Warren Spahn, Johnny Sain, Vern Bickford and Matt Sutkont—have turned in four shutouts in seven days.

Yesterday it was Spahn's turn. The crafty southpaw, who led all National League pitchers with 21 victories last year, hurled the Braves back into first place with a six-hit 5 to 0 victory over St. Louis Cardinals.

Pittsburgh's surprising Pirates made it two in a row over Brooklyn when Murry Dickson set the Dodgers down with five hits to win 4 to 3.

STILL TIED

Cleveland and Washington remained deadlocked for the American League lead. The Indians shaded Boston Red Sox 4 to 3 and the Senators whipped the Browns in a night affair, 8 to 1. The hitting of rookie Harry Simpson and the pitching of Stimpson and the pitching of Stimpson highlighted the Indians' second straight decision over the Red Sox. Simpson, filling in for the ailing Luke Easter at first base, slapped out four hits in as many times at bat.

Scoring five unearned runs on a couple of Chicago errors, New York Yankees came from behind to defeat the White Sox 6 to 4 for a sweep of the two-game series. Singles by pinch-hitter Pat Mullin and Johnny Groth ac-

Commonwealth Court Of Appeals Urged By Simon

Law Lord Makes Suggestion As B.C. Senator Pleads Last Civil Case Before Privy Council

LONDON (CP)—A suggestion that the judicial committee of the Privy Council should become a Commonwealth Appeal Court, including representatives of Dominion governments, was made Wednesday by one of the law lords.

VISCOUNT SIMON

Fined For Having Gun In Car Without Permit

DUNCAN—A fine of $50 was imposed on Herbert Wilson, 18, Cowichan Station, when he pleaded guilty at County Court session Wednesday to carrying in a vehicle a firearm capable of concealment without a permit. Alternative sentence is two months' imprisonment.

Wilson's companion, Melvin S. Yates, 19, Cowichan Station, pleaded not guilty to a similar charge, which was dismissed. Judge L. A. Hanna contended Crown had failed to prove he had knowledge of firearm's presence.

"It may have been that if these ideas had prevailed in time," Lord Simon added, "we should have created a new kind of supreme Commonwealth tribunal, and there would have been no feeling that by coming to London, Canada in some way was traveling outside its natural judicial orbit."

Yesterday we showed how to bid with a hand that is too strong for one no-trump but too weak for two no-trump. You bid one of a suit and then jump in no-trump at your second turn. Today we show the exception to that rule.

If South responds with one of a suit, North jumps to two no-trump. When South makes the weak response to one no-trump, North raises to two no-trump.

Note that this raise shows a very strong hand. North knows that South has very little, but he is still willing to invite a game. This takes real power.

South has a trifle more than might be expected, so he accepts the invitation. He knows that North has roughly twice the value of an average hand. This is just right, for North actually does have two aces, two kings, two queens, two jacks and two tens.

In the play South makes his contract by refusing the first diamond trick. He takes the second trick with dummy's king of diamonds and can develop either hearts or clubs, as he pleases.

For example, if declarer knocks out the ace of clubs, East cannot return a diamond. Hence South can win any return and knock out the ace of hearts without a care in the world. Even if declarer tackles hearts first, all is well. West takes his ace and continues diamonds to establish his suit. However, West can never regain the lead to take his tricks.

See how different thing would be if South were foolish enough

Murder Try Fails

WOMAN GLAD SHE MISSED

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Mrs. Beulah Ripley is glad "I'm not very good with a hammer."

Sadly returning to her housework Wednesday after telling police rings worth $3,000 had been stolen, she took a hammer to flatten a lump in her carpet. She missed the lump and then took a look. There were the rings.

Linnell Elected

DUNCAN — Duncan Kinsmen Tuesday night elected Hugh Linnell president for 1951. James Strachan was named vice-president, Bob Howard, secretary; Alf Carlson, treasurer, and Terry English, registrar. Directors for the year are Jarvis Jickling, Don Miller and Jack Long. New officers will be installed in September.

war theatre, 202, or 80 per cent, come from B.C. and the three prairie provinces. National Defence record showed today.

Heading the list is B.C. with 83, followed by Alberta with 50, Saskatchewan with 41 and Manitoba with 28.

Ontario is most heavily represented among the eastern provinces, having 34 serving in the Sioux. The other provinces are represented as follows: Quebec, four; New Brunswick, four; Nova Scotia, three; Prince Edward Island, three, and Newfoundland, one.

The high percentage of westerners is accounted for by the navy's policy of assigning, in so far as possible, non-officer personnel whose homes are in western Canada to west coast ships and establishments. The Sioux's home port is Esquimalt.

No Korean Medal

LONDON (Reuters)—British troops fighting in Korea are unlikely to receive a campaign medal in addition to the United Nations medal now proposed, Defence Minister Emanuel Shinwell indicated in the House of Commons Wednesday.

HARVARD FACULTY IN DISPUTE OVER MACARTHUR'S POLICIES

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP)—Two Harvard professors disagreed Wednesday on whether the school's faculty included anyone who would defend Gen. MacArthur's position.

Professor Seymour E. Harris said all the faculty members he knows are "against MacArthur—and I know a great many." Professor William Y. Elliott, however, quickly replied that he "felt confident there are many . . . who share Gen. MacArthur's view about the necessity of not fighting . . . with one hand tied behind our back."

The dispute was revealed after Harris inserted an advertisement in the college daily, the Harvard Crimson, calling for defenders of the general.

Wismer, Premier Defend Free Enterprise, H.I.S

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Premier and the Attorney-General of B.C.'s Coalition Government Wednesday night, at separate meetings, spoke out for private enterprise and hospital insurance.

Speaking in New Westminster, Premier Byron Johnson told the 60th annual meeting of the Y.M.C.A.: "It would be a sorry day for this province if it ever became necessary to drop the (hospital insurance) scheme.

On industrial development, he said: "B.C. has reached an era of opportunity for its youth. No longer will it be necessary for them to seek advancement in the U.S. We must give industry assurance of stability to keep it here and attract more."

Attorney-General Gordon Wismer told the annual meeting of the Retail Merchants' Association here that free enterprise is the only method to develop B.C.'s "tremendous" resources.

"Socialism cannot succeed at the provincial sphere because capital will flee across the border," he said.

By ART STOTT

We're trained, in our business, to look upon news as the most perishable commodity there is. The story has to be fresh. News is built from the event of today or tomorrow, and tapers down in importance if it occurred yesterday or on previous yesterdays. Get it while it's hot, the cubs are told, bring it up to date. People don't want to read history in a newspaper. They want news, which is only a couple of letters different from "now."

The theory must be right. It has been followed since the days of carrier pigeons and before. That makes it all the more difficult for us in the business to understand the attraction in old newspapers. We have trouble explaining to ourselves why even we get engrossed in back issues, why, if we chance to wander into the archives or happen to glance through old files, we get so wrapped up in stories about people we never knew and events we never heard of.

ASK A MAN what's in tonight's paper and he'll probably give out a grunt signifying lack of interest. The same guy, a week or two hence, will pick up the same paper when he's lighting the fire and squat down on the floor to read something in it. When it was news, he may have overlooked it. Now it's old, it holds him. Why?

Maybe you've gone through the routine half-a-dozen times during the winter. You went down to the basement to start the furnace, picked up a newspaper and just as you were going to crumple it up and throw it in the firebox, something caught your eye. So you spread the paper out on the floor, took up a position like a kid playing marbles, and started to read. Then you went on to another piece. In spite of the cold and the poor light, you were catching up on your reading.

YOU MIGHT HAVE been down there still, immobilized like a Hindu fakir, if a voice hadn't come from the top of the basement steps shouting, "Are you going to light the furnace, or have you died?"

It isn't a particularly masculine practice. A similar thing happens when the little woman is cleaning out the cupboards and replacing the shelf paper. Of course, she could buy special rolls for that work, but a newspaper's so handy. She'll tell you when you come home at night what she's been reading. "I was cleaning out the cupboards today and ran across some old shelf covers. D'you remember that girl who was up here five or six years ago—lived in the next block? Well, in this old paper, it says that she... and you're away on a news item that's colder than the basement floor on which you did your own back reading."

THEN THE SAME little woman will tell you about the ads in that paper. "You shoulda seen the prices. Why, tenderloin! Remember? It used to sell for only..."

It's probably the same inclination that lends mystery and excitement to newspapers found pasted up as insulation on the inside of walls of old houses. That's a real find. A friend of mine tells me some friends of hers tore down an old building at Campbell River the other day. "They found old papers," she explains. "That got way back to when they called Vancouver 'Gastown.' There were all sorts of interesting things in them."

ANTIQUE and the novelty of their location add something to such printed echoes of a forgotten past. The person discovering them never thinks of such relics as the counterpart of the newspaper he reads tonight. Like old Scotch, age has given them some superior quality. For a while people keep them as curiosities. They may even be stored away for a short period. Then comes a salvage drive and spring housecleaning, and they go the way of other accumulated odds and ends. They're recognized for what they are—just a bunch of old newspapers.

Still, at the time they return to light, as they do when old houses are torn down, or in modified form, when shelves are relined and furnaces are laid, they have a quaint value all their own. They're something distinct from the reading matter a city dweller could find if he cared to walk into a newspaper office and look over bound files. And in a newspaper office, they wouldn't have the same appeal. In that environment, news is so perishable.

Mallard Has Large Brood

Pair of wild mallard ducks that wintered at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Sinclair, 2418 Murray Drive, today proudly displayed their new family of 17 ducklings. When contacted today local bird-lovers stated usual mallard brood was between six and 10.

B.C. Will Continue To Fight For Ottawa Forest Protection Aid

The provincial government will continue to seek federal aid for forest protection, Lands and Forests Minister E. T. Kenney said today.

He was commenting on reports from Ottawa that the national government is implementing a $1,000,000-a-year program of assistance to the provinces in reforestation and forest inventory work.

The announcement from Resources Minister Winters said the senior government will share on a 50-50 basis the cost of inventories, expected to take about five years, and will pay 25 per cent of the cost of "reasonable" programs of reforesting Crown lands.

Monties Deny Discrimination

The R.C.M.P. here today denied charges of discrimination against six Surrey policemen left jobless when the municipality switched its policing Tuesday to the Mounties.

According to a Police Union spokesman, the three men of the Surrey force who were taken on by the R.C.M.P. were the only non-union members of the detachment.

"We did not know who on the Surrey force did belong to the union," an R.C.M.P. officer said. "The six men have been offered other municipal jobs."

Paraplegic Wins Traffic Appeal

Victoria and Vancouver Canadian Legion branches as well as many motorists are awaiting to hear for the reasons of the Appeal Court for allowing the appeal of war veteran John Francis Boreham against a conviction of dangerous driving.

Boreham, a paraplegic won his appeal against the conviction of Vancouver Magistrate W. W. B. McInnes who sentenced him to a fine of $50 and prohibited him from driving for six months.

STILL SEEK FORTUNE

Room-To-Room Search Recluse's Old Home

A room-by-room search will be made through the Lindsey Street house of Leonard Leney, 71-year-old Saanich recluse, who is believed to have hidden a fortune estimated over $150,000 in his residence, R. L. Cox, public administrator, said today.

Leney, according to friends, was worth $1,000,000 or more when he came to Victoria 20 years ago. He suffered many financial reverses in unfortunate investments, they said, but was believed to have a sizeable sum left.

Mr. Cox said he is now looking over some old papers belonging to Leney, who died intestate at the Royal Jubilee Hospital recently.

"What I'm trying to do now is to contact the relatives," he said.

Mr. Kenney said the federal aid program as announced is most acceptable, but it does not go as far as the province desired in that forest protection assistance is required more than anything.

Federal aid would mean a saving to the province but because of the maximum effort being made, the serving would go to consolidated revenue.

Mr. Kenney said the federal government is assisting "marvelously" in forest protection from the standpoint of infestation, but that the province is carrying the load in fighting the main enemy of the forest resources—fire.

Abbott Says City Ideas Considered

Measures for halting inflation suggested to the federal government by Victoria City Council are "receiving the complete and urgent attention of the government," Finance Minister Abbott advised the city by letter today.

"Implementation of many construction schemes, some of them of an urgent and important character, has been postponed," Mr. Abbott wrote, adding the budget was drawn up on a "pay-as-you-go principle."

He added: "Courses of action which we have been and are adopting will, we trust, be effective in curbing inflationary pressures."

"The Dominion government has made appreciable reduction in its civilian spending and has both reduced staff and lengthened hours of work."

Mr. Abbott assured council, the government was ready to take all steps necessary to assure the stability of the country's economy.

He expressed appreciation for the fact that "principles which your council deems so fundamental are the very elements upon which the government is basing the policies it is now pressing."

Roofing Concerns Deny Work Stopped

Officials of Parker, Johnson Ltd. and Pacific Insulation & Roofing Co. Ltd., today refuted reports that their employees had participated in a work stoppage last week when other city roofing firms were tied up because of a union dispute.

"Our men were at work and they are perfectly satisfied with wages and working conditions," Walter Parker and Harold McGregor, spokesmen for the firms, declared in a joint statement.

They revealed negotiations between their firms and the Shingle Workers' local of the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners now were in progress despite the fact the union is not certified to bargain for their employees.

Drainage Project

First step in the $28,000 Saanich drainage program for 1951 today was under way on the Colquitz River between Burnside and Marigold Roads where public works crews are slashing brush.

The social service bill for the last fiscal year was $14,498,800 while in 1949-50 it was $12,481,330.

At the end of March there were 32,644 persons receiving old-age pensions, including 661 blind people, compared to 29,617 at the end of the previous year.

Cost to the province of their pensions was $6,330,000, including $2,975,000 statutory payments and $3,355,000 in the $10 monthly bonus B.C. pays.

In the previous year the province paid out $2,656,352 in statutory charges and $3,030,437 in bonuses, or a total of $5,686,789.

A total of $4,545,000 was paid in social assistance allowances compared to $4,033,551 in the previous year. The money was paid on behalf of 17,284 persons, including 3,075 heads of families, 6,812 dependents and 7,397 single persons.

Under child welfare, the province spent $860,300 in 1,897 cases compared to $615,864, and another larger amount was paid for free medical services including hospitalization and drugs for social assistance cases in the period.

TRIAL DELAYED TO GIVE RENTAL CAR ROAD TEST

Trial of Aid. Robert Macmillan and James D. Watt of the M. and W. U-Drive Ltd., charged with failing to have a governor adjusted so that the speed of a car for hire would not exceed 45 m.p.h., was adjourned until tomorrow in city police court today to learn the result of a road test.

Magistrate H. C. Hall ordered the test after evidence was submitted.

Constables testified they clocked the car at between 51 and 52 m.p.h. April 14.

Ald. Macmillan said he tested the maximum speed of the machine after April 14 and could not get it up to 45 m.p.h.

Trio Send Appeal To Mayor In Fraud Case

Two more Victoria residents and a Sooke man today requested the Police Commission for permission to appear Monday afternoon before the commissioners to give information which may aid in recovery of some $85,000 they claimed they lost to swindlers operating here.

The trio—Robert M. Betts, of Happy Valley Road, Sooke; Mrs. Elizabeth Page, 502-A Gorge Road East, Victoria, and Mrs. Edith Bourne, 806 Cook Street, Victoria—sent letters of appeal to Mayor Percy George.

Mayor George disclosed earlier he has granted W. A. Scott, of Victoria, permission to appear at the Monday meeting. Scott is also a victim of the fraud ring, whose members have assertedly bilked elderly persons here and elsewhere in B.C. of more than $150,000. Mr. Scott has said he lost $9,000.

Mr. Scott has indicated he will ask the commission to instruct Police Chief John Blackstock to seek co-operation from Attorney-General Gordon Wismer in the probe.

CLAIMS $60,000 LOSS

Mr. Betts in his letter to the mayor said his late father and his brother and himself were victimized of about $60,000. Mrs. Page, 73, a widow, wrote the mayor she has been reduced to "financial ruin" by two swindlers who said robbed her of a $9,000 estate left her by her husband.

Mrs. Page recently received word from her attorney that some of her money has been recovered. The lawyer, John Stanton, of Vancouver, informed Mrs. Page he recently received a parcel containing $1,500 worth of shares and bonds belonging to her. Stanton said he had no idea who sent the parcel. It contained no legible postmark.

Mrs. Bourne said she had lost $16,000.

The new developments in the case came after the conviction and sentence here of Clyde Gillies and Percival J. Walls, disbarred Victoria lawyer. Gillies was sentenced to seven years in the penitentiary. Walls is serving a three-year sentence. He received three years on an earlier conviction and a similar sentence to run concurrently, in Mr. Scott's case. They are confined to B.C. Penitentiary on the mainland.

MARY HAWORTH'S MAIL

Today's Correspondent Asks How Girl Should Cope With Reluctant Suitor

Dear Mary Haworth: This problem concerns my friend Doris, 31, a very attractive, intelligent, likeable girl; and therefore it concerns me, too, because I don't want to see her get hurt or waste her time, and also because I once knew a man who resembles her difficult admirer.

Doris is well bred, dresses smartly and has a delightful sense of humor. She is kind, considerate, holds a very good position, has a nice home and family, and drives her own attractive car. She is quite popular and always has Mary Haworth dated frequently since she started going out; but only recently she is having her first affair and her first experience of love.

Being normal, she wants mutual love, marriage and children, as we all do; but the man seems to be quite mixed up and is terribly moody and changeable. He can be most charming and attentive, but at other times sulky, taciturn and rude. Doris is really in love with him, but not at all sure how he feels about her, because of his varied eccentric behavior. She would like to break with him, but seems unable to do so. However, if only he would consistently treat her nicely, she would be happy to go along with him in the hope of marriage.

SOMETIMES GROUCHY, OTHER TIMES SWEET

Wilfred is her age, 31, handsome, attractive, musical, has a good job. He was an officer in the last war and may be called back into service. He tells Doris and her friends that he thinks she is the sweetest, most lovable girl he has ever known; and the prospect of army duty wouldn't keep him from marriage, if he were sure that's what he wants. But he admits he doesn't know what he wants; and he won't get serious until he does.

Dear E.V.: In all probability you are Doris, presenting your problem in the third person, in the guise of "best friend" speaking. And this aspect of your behavior (if I've guessed accurately) indicates that you are an exceedingly defensive character, afraid to be open-hearted and simply yourself in any significant interchange. The question is "Why?"—and I feel sure the answer to that would bring to light the root-causes of your obstructed love life.

DISTRUSTS SELF FURNISHES FACADE

Because you have so little regard for your essential self, as the real source of strength in winning friends, sustaining love and promoting enduring teamwork, you put heavy emphasis on label-values and superficial attributes, in claiming attractiveness. For example, you speak of being well bred, with a nice home and family; of dressing smartly, having a good car and a very good job, etc.; and while you also mention a sense of humor and kind consideration, these aren't the gilt-edged drawing-cards in your estimation.

Mary Haworth counsels through her column, not by mail or personal interview. Write her in care of the Times.

Judges, Mrs. M. C. Yaeger, Portland; Mrs. J. G. Eisenhauer, Tacoma, and Dr. H. T. Gussow, Victoria, were unanimous in judging Miss Marion Ogilvie's table best in the display. Embroidered hand-drawn linen cloth with lace was used, also rose and gold Sevres china, iridescent glass finger bowls, Sheffield candlesticks and pink rosebuds, valley lilies, and forget-me-nots with grape hyacinths, bluebells and pink cactus flowers.

Heirloom China, Colorful Flowers At Table Display

Gracious beauty to be found in perfect table appointments was emphasized at the Empress Hotel yesterday evening where members of Junior Auxiliary to Royal Jubilee Hospital held the annual-decorated table display.

Exquisite china that included many heirloom pieces, delicate glass, fine linens, were complemented with attractive arrangements of bright spring flowers to create many pleasing effects. The display, held afternoon and evening realized more than $750 for work of the auxiliary.

Flame red anthuriums with orange tongues and shining green and orange-spotted leaves, arranged in a low wooden bowl, won for Mrs. E. R. Etheridge the rose bowl for floral display judged best in show.

Popular vote gave a top prize for best table to Mrs. H. Maitland-Young. ## WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Want To Appear Slim?
Best Bet Is To Be Slim

Sometimes overweight women remind me of Milne's story of Pooh Bear. The story I am thinking of is the one in which Pooh wanted to steal some honey from the bees. So he got a big black umbrella and hung onto it, hoping he would look like a big black cloud and the bees would not suspect him.

Pooh called down to his friend Christopher, and asked: "Do I look like a black cloud?" His very candid friend answered: "No you look like a bear hanging onto an umbrella."

Overweight women can use all possible tricks to look slimmer, dress design, colors and so forth, and they are wise to do so. But—in last analysis, they do not look slim. They look like a woman in a good girdle.

I have no quarrel with girdles. I think women should wear them even when they do not carry a lot of weight. I also believe in using tricks to make you look better at any age and at any weight, but why not lose those extra unhappy pounds?

Whenever I write like this I worry for fear my readers I do not know, and those I do know, will think that I judge people by their measurements. This is so far from true! I know that there are many women who have too many pounds who are most fascinating, whose strong love of life and personality make their weight unimportant. However, I know that health is affected by extra poundage, and also that the average woman is influenced by her waistline, so I keep "pounding" away.

I have had so many experiences in working with women who wish to lose weight and improve their figures, and I am so aware of the happy results which were unexpected by them, that I cannot help being enthusiastic. If you could read my mail you would know what I mean.

Bridal Pair Married On Eve Of Church's 60th Anniversary

On the eve of April 28, 60th anniversary of St. Saviour's Church, Victoria West, a wedding was solemnized that united Barbara Louise Reid, and Clifford V. C. Clarke.

Rev. Douglas Kendall heard the marriage vows of the younger daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Reid, 724 Wilson Street, and son of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Clarke, 1712 Denman Street.

Frosted white nylon organza over ice blue taffeta created the bridal gown designed with slim bodice, high neckline and a bustle that pointed up the fullness of the flaring skirt. A halo of orange blossoms held a chapel veil of embroidered nylon net. The bride wore nylon net mitts and carried a cascade bouquet of pink carnations and white sweet-peas. Senior attendant was Miss Margaret Kerr who chose a gown of shell pink taffeta and carried a Colonial bouquet of pink and blue flowers.

Little flower girl Janice McRae, gowned in pastel yellow taffeta, also carried a Colonial bouquet. Mothers of the couple received guests at a wedding reception held at home of bride's parents. A pink and white three-tier wedding cake centred the bride's table which was set with lace cloth, vases of pink carnations and white freesias and lighted candles.

For their up-island honeymoon the bride donned a Glen check suit with navy accessories and pinned Ophelia roses to her pink shortie topcoat.

B.C. Mines Face Labor Shortage

By HARRY YOUNG, Times Business Editor

Reports from two well known British Columbia mining companies indicate that a new problem has arisen to complicate the mining industry in this province.

The problem is not finding ore, or getting it marketed at favorable rates, but obtaining labor for its extraction from mother earth.

The labor shortage was indicated by officials of Silbak Premier and Reeves MacDonald.

Dale L. Pitt, managing director of Silbak Premier says that the only unfavorable factor facing his company was the difficulty of obtaining labor. He also indicated that labor costs would be higher under a new agreement.

Directors of Reeves MacDonald stated at the annual meeting in Vancouver that the company might be placed on a dividend paying basis by the end of this year, provided adequate labor can be obtained. The company at present has a full crew, it was said, and while this state of affairs exists preference is being given to extracting as much ore from underground as possible. Later open pit working will give a bigger tonnage per man although it will be of reduced grade.

The company also said its new wage agreement calls for a daily rate of $10.70 for miners, an increase of 70 cents on the previous daily rate.

The shortage of skilled miners in B.C. is due largely to the reopening of many properties.

It is also pointed out that many outdoor workers prefer the lumber industry where the wage rates are considerably higher.

The shares of Atlas Steel yesterday hit an all-time high of $18.75, and although they have dipped a little from that peak, it is understood that the company is making favorable progress in its 1951 program.

Atlas is a major producer in Canada of fine steels, tool steels and stainless steels, and the products of its Welland, Ont. mills compete for quality and price in all the markets of the world.

An interesting review of this company's activity by L. S. Jackson and Co. Ltd. of Montreal may be seen at the offices of Hagar Investments in Victoria.

The fortnightly list of defence contracts which have been issued since December by the Canadian Commercial Corporation came to an end with the issue of List No. 11 of the period March 16 to 31.

All future lists of defence contracts will come from the Department of Defence Production.

In the final list issued by C.C.C. contract for over $13 millions were awarded. Of these only two came to Victoria aggregating a total of $14,050.

The successful contractors were De Luxe Cleaners $9,050 for dry cleaning, and Standard Steam Laundry, $5,000 for laundry work.

One of the biggest contracts to come so far to B.C. was awarded to Henderson Clothing of Vancouver. Their clothing contract secured was for $145,221.

IN TUNE WITH THE TIMES

What "makes" a popular song? Jack Berch, star of the NBC "Jack Berch Show," heard Mondays through Fridays over KOMO at 8.30 a.m., has a few ideas on the subject. "Gloomy songs," says Jack, "have no place on the top of the tune list." The friendly singing star should know, because he listens to more than 7,800 tunes a year in order to pick the 1,300 he uses.

"People want to be cheered by music," he says. "The gay, light and simple melodies go over best. Love songs with a little novelty and those numbers whose lyrics reveal an obvious white lie, get the REAL play." Western numbers are in a class of their own. The more tears shed by a cowboy—the more popular the tune. Then once in a long while a song like "I'll Never Smile Again" pops up as a "hit." But that's the exception which proves the rule.

"Actually, the public controls the popularity of a song," says Berch. "Three people humming a tune pass it on to another 20, and it's on its way. A song must have that chain-letter appeal." Although Jack sprinkles his program with such selections as "Bless This House" and "May the Good Lord Bless and Keep You," his vast majority are in a lighter, gayer vein. Reminded about the brief success of "Gloomy Sunday," Berch is of the opinion it won't happen again. "That was a quirk," he says, "and when some people took their lives after hearing it, public opinion pushed that song into limbo."

So if you are hankering to write a hit-song, keep it gay, lulling and in the lighter vein.

TONIGHT'S BEST . . . "Suspense" with Rosalind Russell over CJVI at 6, or "Dragnet," an authentic crime episode, on KIRO at same time. Sarah Churchill on "Hallmark Playhouse" over KIRO at 6.30. His Majesty The King will be heard on the Dominion network of the CBC tomorrow evening at 5 p.m. in a special re-broadcast of the opening ceremonies at the Festival of Britain over CJVI and CJOR.

The physiologist, in reply, will tell us that we cannot experiment on human beings. GEORGE CASSIDY

Noted Scottish Photographer Here On Tour

One of Scotland's best-known press photographers who is making a business holiday of a round-the-world trip by taking thousands of pictures visited Victoria today.

"I could not leave out this most photogenic city," said George C. Cassidy of Kilsyth, Stirlingshire, who paid a visit to business editor Harry Young of The Times an old Scottish newspaper friend.

Mr. Cassidy left London on Dec. 4 aboard the P. and O. liner Himalaya for Australia where he spent two months giving lectures on "Bonny Scotland" and showing some of the color slides he had taken on the first part of his trip.

In Sydney he met his brother Andy, whom he had not seen for 31 years. Then came visits to Tasmania and New Zealand.

A keen lawn bowler and member of the Kilsyth Club, George said he spent most of his time playing bowls throughout the Antipodes.

MAKES AIR TRIP

Because the Aorangi was temporarily off service, Mr. Cassidy had to do the Pacific by air.

He spent a week at Fiji where he lived in a native hut called a bura. "They gave me a great big dog to sleep on the floor of the hut to keep the snakes away," he said. "Fortunately it liked my Scottish accent."

At his next stop, Honolulu, he met an old friend, boxer Dado Marino, and his manager, Sam Itchinose.

Mr. Cassidy is going east via Vancouver, Banff, Toronto, Cleveland and New York. He expects to be back in Scotland at the end of June.

Further Reforms Planned By Iranian Government

Internal Electoral, Municipal Changes To Be Introduced; 'Friendly' Foreign Policy

TEHRAN (Reuters)—Prime Minister Mohammad Mussadeh told the Iranian Parliament today that he will introduce electoral and municipal reforms besides nationalizing the oil industry.

"Our foreign policy is based on the Atlantic Charter and the United Nations Organization," he said. "Our relations with all other countries are friendly."

The oil nationalization bill, pushed through both Houses of Parliament by Mussadeh in five days, became law Wednesday when the Shah signed the executive decrees.

But Mussadeh's propaganda department announced that any claims of the Anglo-Iranian Oil Company, the British-controlled operator of Iran vast oilfields and refineries, will be considered before the law is effective.

The British and United States ambassadors called on Mussadeh just before the Shah signed the decrees and expressed their countries' disapproval of any one-sided action by the Iranian government.

SALVATION ARMY APPEAL FOR $30,000 OPENS HERE MAY 7

Victorians during the next three weeks will be asked to contribute $30,000 toward local humanitarian work carried on by the Salvation Army.

The $30,000 quota is the same as that set in 1950, when the campaign was oversubscribed.

This year's Red Shield Appeal will run from May 7 to 28. Those planning the drive are still seeking volunteer canvassers willing to give part of their time to canvass residential districts.

SPRINGTIME IS SARNAK TIME

after a long Winter your resistance is low, old troublesome symptoms are apt to bother you

Rheumatic, arthritic, neuritic pains, sciatica, backache, bilious dizzy spells, some kidney and liver and stomach upsets, indigestion, heartburn, bloating, getting up nights, lack of energy, nutritional anemia and nervousness and sleeplessness due to these symptoms.

READ BELOW WHAT SARNAK IS DOING FOR OTHERS

Mrs. Phil Annweiler, 225 Avenue E. South Saskatoon, Sask., writes— "For the last fifteen years I have suffered greatly with Rheumatic pain and pain rising from a Gall Bladder condition. Although I have taken many forms of analgesic, nothing I took seemed to help me. Just recently I read about Sarnak and bought my first bottle. I am thankful to say that Sarnak has been a great help to me right from the very first. It relieves my pain as nothing else I have taken."

Mrs. George Weston, Selkirk, Man., writes— "I must thank you for what Sarnak has done for me. I am now starting my fifth bottle. I have suffered with the pain of Varicose Veins for a long time and Sarnak certainly has relieved my pain. The pain was so bad that I was unable to do my housework, but since taking Sarnak I am able to get about as usual."

Mr. M. R. Seres of Beaverdale, Saskatchewan, writes— "For quite some time I suffered with Neuritic and Arthritic pains in my left leg and shoulder. I couldn't move my leg or walk during my last attack for the pain. I wrote taking Sarnak and after my first bottle the pain was relieved and I can now get around and do some work. I am going to continue with Sarnak for I know it will benefit me."

Mr. Roemer started taking SARNAK and wrote us as follows: "SARNAK brought me relief within a few days. My poor health had made me nervous and almost afraid to eat. I can truly say now that SARNAK relieved my stomach upset and nervousness. I'm grateful for what SARNAK has done for me."

Mrs. F. Plouffe, Point St. Charles, Montreal, Quebec, is 60 years of age and had suffered with rheumatic pain in the knees and sharp pain in the small of the back. After Mrs. Plouffe had used just one bottle of SARNAK she wrote: "I was in such pain I could hardly do my work and had trouble getting my proper rest. The first bottle of SARNAK relieved my pain; allowed me to do my housework. I don't know how to thank you for what SARNAK has done for me."

Mr. Stanley P. Dexter, Deep Cove, B.C., is a retired locomotive engineer and 64 years of age. Mr. Dexter had suffered from arthritic pain in both knees, and his hip for seven years until he started to take SARNAK, but here's what Mr. Dexter says: "I tried
